Ike Offers 6-Point Plan To Reorganize Pentagon

House Approves New Highway Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a compromise $1.8 billion anti-recession highway construction bill.

Senate passage was considered certain, because the conferees on Tuesday largely accepted the Senate provisions.

House passage was by rollcall vote, 300-28.

Previously the House defeated 222-109 an attempt to send the bill back to a Senate-House conference committee for further consideration.

Voting to recommit the bill were 58 Democrats and 51 Republicans. Against were 121 Democrats and 101 Republicans.

Major difference between the original Senate and House versions was inclusion by the Senate of a provision intended to curb erection of billboards along interstate highways. This provision was retained in the compromise.

House rejection of the compromise would have precluded further action on the measure until April 14, when the congressional Easter recess starting later today ends.

Eisenhower signed the session's first antirecession bill, a $1.8 billion housing measure, Tuesday.

Highway bill opposition in the House was centered on the provision for regulation of billboards along the 41,000-mile network of expressways now being built—the interstate system.

The House member reported that "I've never seen any lobbying like this since the Volstead Act. On one side you have the garden clubs, on the other the outdoor advertising industry."

The billboard provision would give incentives to the states to control advertising signs along the interstate system. For signing agreements to regulate billboards, they would be paid a bonus of one half of 1 per cent of the cost of the interstate segment covered by the agreement. This would be in addition to the 90 per cent of the cost already borne by the federal government.

'Truly Unified' Military Said To Be Assured

President Seeking To Increase Defense Secretary's Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today sent Congress a six-point Pentagon reorganization plan which he said would give the secretary of defense authority for "truly unified" military operations.

In his sweeping plan, Eisenhower proposed that the secretary of defense:

1. Have final say, short of a president, over which officers shall be picked for top ranks, and,

2. Be able to transfer officers between the services without regard to their basic uniform, if the officer himself consents.

In a 7,000-word special message Eisenhower said: "We must remove all doubts as to the full authority of the secretary of defense."

Eisenhower said that separate ground, sea and air warfare is gone forever.

He proposed that the Joint Chiefs of Staff be continued, but said that in the future they should serve as a staff assisting the secretary of defense in his exercise of direction over unified commands.

"Strategic and tactical planning must be completely unified, combat forces organized into unified commands, each equipped with the most efficient weapons system that science can develop, singly led and prepared to fight as one, regardless of service," the message said.

* * *

EVEN BEFORE the message reached Congress, there had been doubts voiced by some influential legislators as to whether the secretary of defense should have greatly increased power.

Eisenhower's program would strip the civilian heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force of direct authority over military operations. In effect, they would be left as merely executive agents.

Eisenhower also proposed, despite opposition in Congress, that in the future all appropriations for the three services be earmarked for handling by the secretary of defense, instead of being channeled by Congress to the three services.

Eisenhower suggested that procedure go into effect July 1, 1959.

The message set forth these main points:

1. "We must organize our fighting forces into operational commands that are truly unified, each assigned a mission in full accord with our over-all military objectives."

2. "We must clear command

Cubans Given OK To Shoot to Kill

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — President Fulgencio Batista's government today authorized workers to kill if necessary to stay on their jobs when rebel leader Fidel Castro issues his long-threatened call for a general strike.

The order, one of three of the harshest decrees in the history of the Cuban republic, was issued by Batista and his Cabinet after an all-night meeting.

A second decree barred any judge from issuing a ruling against a government official or agency or against any government or legal opposition leader. Judges who failed to obey would be immediately dismissed.

The third order said any employer who ordered a work stoppage of any kind could be jailed for up to six months.

All government ministers were authorized to issue licenses to bear arms to Cuba's 160,000 public employes and all other workers.

* * *

THE DECREE absolved workers of criminal responsibility for any steps they thought necessary —including killing—to prevent being forced into joining a strike.

The government also decreed that anyone joining a general strike would lose his job permanently. When this penalty was first applied in 1935 it quickly broke a general strike.

Despite solid support of labor union leaders for Batista, Castro claims that workers are secretly organized to follow him. He has threatened that if his rebellion succeeds, he will try for treason any officials who keep working after his strike call is issued.

Two columns of Castro's rebels were reported moving toward Santiago, attacking communications as they advanced.

A rebel communique said one column of guerrillas was approaching Santiago, Cuba's second largest city and the capital of the easternmost province of Oriente, from Castro's mountain headquarters to the west.

Another force led by Castro's brother Raul destroyed communications around the sugar mill city of Sagua de Tanamo and apparently moved on toward Santiago, 50 miles to the southwest. In contrast to the small bands which previously had swept down from the mountains, the rebels claimed 1,000 persons were in this column.

* * *

BOTH COLUMNS shot up and wrecked motor and rail transport as they advanced.

The communique said thousands of armed men from the Oriente countryside soon would march on Santiago. Batista's army reinforced its 5,000 or more men in Oriente, and officers expressed confidence they could defeat Castro if he risked an open battle. So far in his 16-month campaign to overthrow Batista, the rebel leader has stuck to hit-and-run guerrilla tactics.

Clashes between government troops and the rebels continued on a small scale. The army said 12 rebels were killed 60 miles north west of Santiago and three more near the city.

Rebels killed three members of an army patrol at Bayamo, another reports said. The air force bombed suspected rebel hideouts in Oriente.

As yet there was no general exodus of the 12,000 Americans living in Cuba and no recommendation to go from the U.S. Embassy. About 40 American families reportedly had left Oriente.

Government officials denied reports published abroad that five planeloads of arms had arrived from the Dominican Republic for Batista's forces. The reports followed an admission by the U.S. State Department that it had held up shipment of 1,950 Garand rifles to the Cuban government.

The State Department denied it had embargoed all arms shipments to Cuba. A spokesman indicated the rifles were held up because Batista had suspended constitutional guarantees.

Now-Famed Marshall Plan Started 10 Years Ago Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President of the United States scratched his name on the bottom of the document. He looked solemnly at the congressional leaders and Cabinet advisers around him and said:

"This is a momentous step in the world's quest for an enduring peace." And with these words 10 years ago today, President Harry Truman launched the famous Marshall Plan.

His signature set in motion perhaps the most massive aid program the world has ever known.

Its immediate aim was to save Western Europe, still wracked by the wounds of war, from chaos and communism. It got its name from Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, who had outlined the plan in an address at Harvard University June 5, 1947.

Immediately foreign aid experts rushed the first shipments to Europe. They cut enough corners to move the first shipment — wheat for drought-stricken Austria — to East Coast ports within six days.

* * *

EVEN BEFORE Paul Hoffman was named Marshall Plan chief April 6, emergency food and raw materials shipments had been arranged for Italy, where Communists were making a big bid for an election victory April 18. The Communists were beaten overwhelmingly.

At that time the flow of food, machinery, raw materials and fuel was figured to cost 16 billion dollars in four years. This estimate proved far too optimistic. By June 30 of this year economic and military aid provided overseas countries will total $48,993,600,000.

Since the Korean War in 1950, military aid has represented the biggest share of this assistance. If it hadn't been for this surprise Communist attack on Korea, most officials believe the task of helping Western Europe could have ended on schedule in 1952.

President Eisenhower joined former President Truman last month in crediting the Marshall Plan with achieving its goal. Eisenhower, appealing for Congress to continue foreign aid for an 11th consecutive year, declared:

"Mutual aid has repeatedly played a major part in keeping free world countries from losing their freedom. It has thwarted the Communist hope of encircling and isolating us."

U.N. Aides Eye U.S. Recession

No Upturn Expected Before Next Fall

GENEVA (AP) — The U. N. Economic Commission for Europe predicts the recession in the United States probably will run at least through autumn and Western Europe had better start doing something to help itself.

But the United States downturn was not blamed entirely for the European economic outlook. The commission reported the West European boom has been losing strength for two years, due in part to the tight money policies of most West European governments.

In its annual survey, the commission said the U.S. business downturn is bound to affect Western Europe through most of 1958 because American businessmen and consumers will be buying less all over the world.

Not only will this result in fewer U.S. purchases in Europe this year but Asian, African and Latin-American countries will buy less in Europe because their own income will be curtailed by fewer orders from the United States.

* * *

FOR THE U.S. itself, the commission forecast lower personal income and less money to buy things. An upturn "seems unlikely before autumn at the earliest," the report said.

In London, the U.S. Embassy's top economist, Edwin M. Martin, told the American Chamber of Commerce that he believes the U.S. economy will level off by summer or fall and start an upturn by December. He added that "a depression with wide international impact is not in the cards."

The 400-page report suggested that European governments with strict credit controls could relax them as one way of softening the shock of he U.S. recession.

News in Brief

3 Tornado Funnels Hit City in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Three tornado funnels whirled across this north Texas city Wednesday. One man was killed, two were missing and hospitals listed 3 injured.

The twisters, which struck at about 6 p. m., demolished or damaged 175 homes and business houses.

Sirens wailed a warning that was largely ignored. Hundreds braved torrential rain and hail in the streets to watch the tornadoes. Many waited until the funnels were almost upon them before diving for shelter.

One funnel struck from the northwest, counter to the path generally taken by tornadoes, and narrowly missed the downtown area. A second hit a residential area west of the city and the third struck suburban Deandale, eight miles to the east.

Most witnesses said three tornadoes hit the city and its surrounding area. The Weather Bureau said there may have been three tornadoes that converged on the city or three funnels from the same tornado cloud.

California Floods Bring Disaster Tag

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Goodwin J. Knight declared California a disaster area today as rains and snow stranded trains, marooned 200 in the Sierra Nevada and sent rivers flooding over their banks.

Four persons died — two by drowning and two others in accidents attributed to the storm.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's streamlined City of San Francisco with 97 persons aboard was stranded in a snowshed near Donner Summit in the Sierra 165 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Two avalanches of snow buried a 22-car mail train on the track ahead, stalling the crack westbound passenger train which followed. All 25 on the mail train got out but two trainmen were injured.

The "City," en route from Chicago to San Francisco, was hung up just three miles from where it was stalled in snow for days in 1952.

Some 200 persons were stranded in the mountain chain that runs along the state's western boundary —150 of them at Donner Summit Lodge. Many of them were skiers.

The governor alerted National Guardsmen in Santa Clara County, south of San Francisco, and at Stockton in the Central Valley, where flood dangers threatened.

Only light rains were forecast for today, lessening the flood threat somewhat.

Space Agency Idea Studied

Role of AEC in New Program Pondered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators generally welcomed today President Eisenhower's plan for a new civilian-controlled space agency, but wondered what part the Atomic Energy Commission might play.

The possibility that nuclear propulsion might eventually replace chemically fueled engines as the motive power in space had led to some suggestions that space projects be assigned to the AEC.

Eisenhower made no direct mention of the AEC in proposing to Congress the establishment of a new National Aeronautics and Space Agency to develop "an imaginative and well-conceived space program."

"That is the explosive angle," said Sen. Mundt (R-SD), a member of the newly created Special Senate Committee on Space and Astronautics.

Four members of the Senate space group — Senators Anderson (D-NM), Bricker (R-Ohio), Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) and Russell (D-Ga)—also serve on the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee.

"I BELIEVE there is a place for consideration of atomic propulsion in our space program," Hickenlooper said in an interview. "I'm studying the President's space message now."

Eisenhower said details of his program will be sent to Congress later.

He picked the existing National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics as the foundation for the proposed aeronautics and space agency.

He proposed a civilian director, backed by a board of scientists, technicians and experts, to operate the new unit.

Congress Sends Water Project Bill to Ike

The Senate completed action on the House-passed bill Wednesday.

Five Circleville High School students apprehended this week in connection with a series of burglaries here were slated to appear in Juvenile Court today.

The five 16-year-olds are accused of being involved in at least six burglaries in this area and one in Ashland, Ky.

Easter's Untold Stories

Editor's Note: The third in a four-part series on minor characters in the Easter drama, this is the story of Simon, who without plan or warning suddenly found himself intimately involved in Jesus' final hours.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Like many another tourist, Simon saw the martial procession coming down the hill from the Fortress Antonia. Curious, he stopped to watch it. He could make out three prisoners, each carrying a heavy wooden beam.

It seemed queer—a hanging in the holiday week. Simon shrugged, worked the betel nut in his jaw, and spat.

He was a giant of a man, dark of skin, with a proud, erect stance. His massive hands were callused, and he had the sun-crinkled eyes of a farmer. But his turban and mantle were of finest woven wool.

SIMON, A CYRENIAN

He came from Cyrene, in Libya's fertile, coastal hills where he and his sons, Rufus and Alexander, raised great fields of cotton. Marketing business may have brought him on his trip to Jerusalem.

From up the street, the formation approached slowly, led by a Roman herald bearing the decree of execution.

Simon found his attention riveted on one of the victims, a slender, bearded man, whose face was scratched, blood-streaked and puffed with ashen bruises. His arms bore the jagged gashes of the metal and bone-tipped lash.

Neither of the other two men, both burly, vicious-looking ruffians, showed any signs of a flogging. Only the one appeared gravely hurt and weakened. Red stains soaked the back of His robe.

Yet, with all the marks of abuse and injury, there was about Him a formidable strength. He was broken, crushed, but somehow, still relentlessly determined in His walk to doom. Simon felt a surge of admiration.

The crowd had thickened, but when the big man from Africa stepped forward a bit, the others edged aside, opening a path. He had not intended to move closer, but the action came involuntarily.

His ears picked up scatterings of talk now, and some of the onlookers pointed their fingers. "The Nazarene," they said. "The disturber, Jesus." The other two condemned men were said to be bandits, Dysmas and Gestas.

The hands of all three were tied, held aloft athwart the wooden beams which rested on their right shoulders. To Simon's practiced eye, the boards looked about four cubits (six feet) long, about two palms wide and three fingers thick. These were the horizontal pieces of the crosses on which they would die. The uprights already were in place on Calvary.

Simon's eyes narrowed resentfully as he watched the agonized progress of the Nazarene. The man's breath came in light, rapid

The Senate completed action on the House-passed bill Wednesday.

Now-Famed Marshall Plan Started 10 Years Ago Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President of the United States scratched his name on the bottom of the document. He looked solemnly at the congressional leaders and Cabinet advisers around him and said:

"This is a momentous step in the world's quest for an enduring peace." And with these words 10 years ago today, President Harry Truman launched the famous Marshall Plan.

His signature set in motion perhaps the most massive aid program the world has ever known.

Its immediate aim was to save Western Europe, still wracked by the wounds of war, from chaos and communism. It got its name from Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, who had outlined the plan in an address at Harvard University June 5, 1947.

Immediately foreign aid experts rushed the first shipments to Europe. They cut enough corners to move the first shipment — wheat for drought-stricken Austria — to East Coast ports within six days.

* * *

EVEN BEFORE Paul Hoffman was named Marshall Plan chief April 6, emergency food and raw materials shipments had been arranged for Italy, where Communists were making a big bid for an election victory April 18. The Communists were beaten overwhelmingly.

At that time the flow of food, machinery, raw materials and fuel was figured to cost 16 billion dollars in four years. This estimate proved far too optimistic. By June 30 of this year economic and military aid provided overseas countries will total $48,993,600,000.

Since the Korean War in 1950, military aid has represented the biggest share of this assistance. If it hadn't been for this surprise Communist attack on Korea, most officials believe the task of helping Western Europe could have ended on schedule in 1952.

President Eisenhower joined former President Truman last month in crediting the Marshall Plan with achieving its goal. Eisenhower, appealing for Congress to continue foreign aid for an 11th consecutive year, declared:

"Mutual aid has repeatedly played a major part in keeping free world countries from losing their freedom. It has thwarted the Communist hope of encircling and isolating us."

Easter's Untold Stories

Editor's Note: The third in a four-part series on minor characters in the Easter drama, this is the story of Simon, who without plan or warning suddenly found himself intimately involved in Jesus' final hours.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Like many another tourist, Simon saw the martial procession coming down the hill from the Fortress Antonia. Curious, he stopped to watch it. He could make out three prisoners, each carrying a heavy wooden beam.

It seemed queer—a hanging in the holiday week. Simon shrugged, worked the betel nut in his jaw, and spat.

He was a giant of a man, dark of skin, with a proud, erect stance. His massive hands were callused, and he had the sun-crinkled eyes of a farmer. But his turban and mantle were of finest woven wool.

He came from Cyrene, in Libya's fertile, coastal hills where he and his sons, Rufus and Alexander, raised great fields of cotton. Marketing business may have brought him on his trip to Jerusalem.

SIMON, A CYRENIAN

From up the street, the formation approached slowly, led by a Roman herald bearing the decree of execution.

Simon found his attention riveted on one of the victims, a slender, bearded man, whose face was scratched, blood-streaked and puffed with ashen bruises. His arms bore the jagged gashes of the metal and bone-tipped lash.

Neither of the other two men, both burly, vicious-looking ruffians, showed any signs of a flogging. Only the one appeared gravely hurt and weakened. Red stains soaked the back of His robe.

Yet, with all the marks of abuse and injury, there was about Him a formidable strength. He was broken, crushed, but somehow, still relentlessly determined in His walk to doom. Simon felt a surge of admiration.

The crowd had thickened, but when the big man from Africa stepped forward a bit, the others edged aside, opening a path. He had not intended to move closer, but the action came involuntarily.

His ears picked up scatterings of talk now, and some of the onlookers pointed their fingers. "The Nazarene," they said. "The disturber, Jesus." The other two condemned men were said to be bandits, Dysmas and Gestas.

The hands of all three were tied, held aloft athwart the wooden beams which rested on their right shoulders. To Simon's practiced eye, the boards looked about four cubits (six feet) long, about two palms wide and three fingers thick. These were the horizontal pieces of the crosses on which they would die. The uprights already were in place on Calvary.

Simon's eyes narrowed resentfully as he watched the agonized progress of the Nazarene. The man's breath came in light, rapid

3 Tornado Funnels Hit City in Texas

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) — Three tornado funnels whirled across this north Texas city Wednesday. One man was killed, two were missing and hospitals listed 3 injured.

The twisters, which struck at about 6 p. m., demolished or damaged 175 homes and business houses.

Sirens wailed a warning that was largely ignored. Hundreds braved torrential rain and hail in the streets to watch the tornadoes. Many waited until the funnels were almost upon them before diving for shelter.

One funnel struck from the northwest, counter to the path generally taken by tornadoes, and narrowly missed the downtown area. A second hit a residential area west of the city and the third struck suburban Deandale, eight miles to the east.

Most witnesses said three tornadoes hit the city and its surrounding area. The Weather Bureau said there may have been three tornadoes that converged on the city or three funnels from the same tornado cloud.

California Floods Bring Disaster Tag

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Goodwin J. Knight declared California a disaster area today as rains and snow stranded trains, marooned 200 in the Sierra Nevada and sent rivers flooding over their banks.

Four persons died — two by drowning and two others in accidents attributed to the storm.

The Southern Pacific Railroad's streamlined City of San Francisco with 97 persons aboard was stranded in a snowshed near Donner Summit in the Sierra 165 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Two avalanches of snow buried a 22-car mail train on the track ahead, stalling the crack westbound passenger train which followed. All 25 on the mail train got out but two trainmen were injured.

The "City," en route from Chicago to San Francisco, was hung up just three miles from where it was stalled in snow for days in 1952.

Some 200 persons were stranded in the mountain chain that runs along the state's western boundary —150 of them at Donner Summit Lodge. Many of them were skiers.

The governor alerted National Guardsmen in Santa Clara County, south of San Francisco, and at Stockton in the Central Valley, where flood dangers threatened.

Only light rains were forecast for today, lessening the flood threat somewhat.

Truck Strikes Sheriff's Car

Joe D. Necessary, 20, Bristol, Tenn., found it necessary today to appear in Circleville Municipal Court after his truck struck a parked sheriff's department cruiser last night on Route 23 about two miles south of Circleville.

Necessary was fined $35 and costs on a reckless operation count filed by Deputy Charles Felkey. He appeared before Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Felkey, pulled off the highway checking out another car, said the cruiser's tail lights and blinker light were on at the time. The deputy was inside the car, but was not injured.

Fire Destroys Poultry Farm

A fire at noon today destroyed a combination garage and feed room and scorched a building which housed 4,000 young chickens at the J. Hay Poultry Farm Route 2, three miles northeast of Ashville, on Route 752.

The fire was started when a strong wind carried a trash fire into the garage. The fire waged out of control until 12:50, when the Ashville and Lithopolis Fire Departments finally brought it under control. Volunteers from both departments are still at the scene as the fire is burning under a straw pile. The garage and feed room were completely destroyed.

The Ashville Fire Department was notified at approximately 11:30 a.m. today and furnished a pumper and tanker. The Lithopolis Fire Department had two pumpers on hand. Approximately 15 volunteer firemen from both communities fought the fire.

Andy Ward, Ashville Fire Department secretary, said the garage held farm implements. He also said the farm house was scorched on one corner.

Ward said the fire was aided by a strong head wind. No estimate of damage was available at 1:30 p.m. today.

Stock Prices Continuing On Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to slide in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Losses of pivotal issues ran from fractions to around a point. A few key stocks rose against the trend.

Tobaccos did well. Steels, nonferrous metals, oils, chemicals, rails and most motors were lower.

It was a mild follow-through to Wednesday's sharp break, the steepest since Jan. 10.

Caution prevailed on the eve of a three-day market holiday. The New York Stock Exchange will be closed Good Friday.

U. S. Steel, Bethelehem and Republic steel dropped fractions but Youngstown Sheet was about unchanged.

Chrysler recouped a small fraction of its 1¼ loss of Wednesday.

Lorillard added a major fraction. American Tobacco was up around two points at one time then pared a fraction from the rise.

Kennecott dropped about a point and Phelps Dodge was firm. General Motors eased. Standard Oil (New Jersey) dropped a fraction.

Government bonds advanced.

Cyrenian's Life

gasps, and He tottered uncontrollably each time He advanced a foot.

Then, just as the prisoners came abreast of Simon, the Nazarene stumbled on a jutting cobblestone and pitched forward on the pavement. The board slammed against His back.

A soldier cursed. Another one, muttering, slid the board free, and the centurion came running up to get the prisoner back on His feet. Once up, the officer surveyed Him dubiously and shook his head.

Then his irritated gaze swept the crowd. Simon stood out, a natural physical specimen for a heavy load. The centurion jabbed a finger at him — "You!"

Simon eyed the soldier warily. He didn't like jumping to Roman commands. Then he glanced at the battered prisoner, and that puzzling attraction, another sort or command, rang in him.

He wiped his lips and strolled over beside the crossbeam. With a quick, easy dip of powerful arms, he swung it to his shoulder. Then he turned and for the first time his eyes met those of Jesus.

It was only an instant, but to Simon it held an eternity of affection received. Those eyes, despite all the man's mistreatment, swam with a strangely rich animation, with a deep knowledge and immense love.

There was something else, too, a sort of brotherliness, as if in the flash of a single look, He knew you utterly, through and through, and made you a cherished companion. There were no guarded reservations, no barriers in those eyes.

Never before had Simon felt so fully wanted, so genuinely needed and approved. It wasn't so much gratitude that he saw in that look, but a limitless understanding that smiled approval and kinship.

At a barked order, the procession resumed, and Simon stepped along beside the prisoner, hardly aware of the weight on his shoulder. It seemed light as straw, and he couldn't shake off a baffling sensation. He had an urge to thank this condemned man, Jesus, for the chance to carry the beam. It just didn't make sense, this feeling he had of being especially good and worthy, because he walked with this man to Calvary.

Jesus walked more steadily now, and Simon heard Him sigh with relief. It was about six furlongs (three fourths of a mile) out to the hill of crucifixion — called Golgotha, place of the skull.

No record tells what conversation passed between Simon and Jesus on that somber walk together, but it is possible that they spoke, that Jesus explained His lone, wonderful, terrible mission to the world.

"I am the good shepherd . . . I lay down my life for the sheep." A farmer would understand such language. ". . .I lay down My life, that I may take it again . . . He who believes in Me, though he die, yet shall he live again."

They reached the hill.

The prisoners were stripped, and laid on their backs while their outstretched arms were nailed to the crossbeams. These were then hoisted to the stakes, the beams lashed in place, and the victims' feet nailed to the stakes.

Simon could help Jesus no more. The hours of torture began the crawling, creeping, muscle-cramping, lung-constricting horror of crucifixion—the slow death of pain —one of the cruelest forms of execution ever devised.

Loud were the taunts. Bitter the mockery. And Jesus implored, "Father, forgive them. . ." The soldiers gambled, and the crowd gawked. "My God, my God. . ." The sky turned black and the earth shook. "It is finished!"

Slowly, Simon turned and walked away. The big African would never be the same again. His strong arms had taken him into the embrace of stronger arms still.

In the years afterward, Simon from Cyrene labored with Jesus' apostles, as did his two sons. He had discovered, suddenly and without plan, that life's greatest compensation came when he took up a cross and followed Jesus.

'58 Model Huck Finns Born Too Late

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Huckleberry Finn has faded a little farther into the past.

Floating down a river was just good, clean fun in the day of Mark Twain's hero. But in Municipal Court Wednesday three teenagers learned that, legally, it's "loitering and trespassing."

Their lesson will cost them $75 each, payable within a year.

The Los Angeles River, unlike Huck Finn's, is paved, sides and bottom. Except during heavy storms it carries a trickle that will just about float a dead leaf.

Swollen with runoff Tuesday, the channel became a raging sluiceway—an adventurous challenge to George Hamlin, 19; Peter Van Duinwyk, 18; and Don Pullen, 19, all of suburban Reseda. They set sail on a rubber life raft, "just for fun."

It wasn't so funny when they lost their paddles.

Observers on shore reported their plight to police and fire departments. A helicopter used the windstream of its rotors to blow them to the bank. Police pulled them out, wet and disenchanted.

Any remaining appeal the escapade may have had vanished when Judge Parks Stillwell told them: "The fines you must pay won't come close to the amount spent in the rescue."

"I guess they wanted to re-enact a little of the Huckleberry Finn days," said the judge. "It's too bad they're in the wrong area and the wrong era. They were about 50 years too late."

Ohio Convict To See Own Song Published

COLUMBUS (AP) — Matthew Rycombel is doing his chores in the Roman Catholic chapel at Ohio Penitentiary today with a song in his heart and a contract in his pocket to publish that same song.

He has high hopes of being able to duplicate the feat of the famed fiction writer, O. Henry, who gained national attention for work he did inside the prison's walls.

The 36-year-old Rycombel, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., who was sent to prison from Cleveland, has written a song he says will be published. It's a waltz now entitled "The Ten Commandments of Love."

The title will be changed because another song uses it, something Rycombel learned from Joseph E. Zerga, vice president of the Beechwood Music Publishing Co. of Hollywood, Calif., which will publish the song. That company is associated with Capitol Records.

"It's the first song I ever sold," says Rycombel, who has been writing unpublished songs for 15 years. "I've got a lot more, but I won't send any more out until after I'm paroled."

The burglary of a laundry in Cleveland which netted him some clothing and about $5 in cash landed him in the penitentiary for a 1-15 year stretch in July of 1954. He expects parole in 1959.

3. "We must strengthen the military staff in the office of the secretary of defense in order to provide the commander in chief and the secretary with the professional assistance they need for strategic planning and for operational direction of unified commands."

It was under this point that Eisenhower said that in the future the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have the role of assisting the secretary of defense in his direction over unified command.

A PRESIDENTIAL aide, Bryce Harlow, said in reply to questions at a news conference that this is not a move toward creation of a general staff such as that in the old German military establishment.

4. "We must continue the three military departments as agencies within the Department of Defense to administer a wide range of functions."

But, Eisenhower added, under the new plan the civilian heads of the three services will be relieved of direct responsibility for military operations.

5. "We must reorganize the research and development functions of the department in order to make the best use of our scientific and technological resources."

6. "We must remove all doubts as to the full authority of the secretary of defense."

Eisenhower said the authority of the secretary of defense has been circumscribed and hedged about in a number of ways which not only make the burdens of his office far heavier than they need to be, but also work against the efficient and effective direction of national security activities.

Eisenhower left some members of Congress confused when he told his news conference Wednesday that the secretary of defense has "direct responsibility" for strategic planning and setting up the organization to carry it out.

Most members supposed this was the primary job of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—subject to civilian approval. Some of them said they would regard any change in this system as something to be looked into by Congress.

New Car Sales Make Jump Here

New car sales to Pickaway County residents during the month of March totaled 79, an increase of 34 over February. Other motor vehicles sold were 16 trucks, 11 station wagons, four house trailers, one school bus, two motor scooters and one motorcycle.

A total of 1,179 motor vehicles of all types, both new and used, changed hands in the county during March. This is 545 over February.

Automotive mortgages totaled 509. Cancellations of mortgages and liens numbered 324.

Chevrolet led the county in motor vehicle sales for the third straight month with 35. Ford was in second place with 18. Oldsmobile and Plymouth took the largest jump in sales with 14 and 13 respectively. Last month both sold three.

Other motor vehicles sold were Buick, eight; Dodge and International, three; Mercury, Cadillac, and Chrysler, two; DeSoto, Pontiac, Rambler and Volkswagon, one.

Board Acts On Transfer

The Pickaway County Board of Education held its monthly meeting last night in the county superintendent's office.

A resolution was passed assigning all assets and liabilities, of the newly transferred New Holland School District to the Miami Trace School District of Fayette County.

The equitable distribution of funds and indebtedness was in conformity to the journal entry on record in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Aw, Shucks! Why Hold An Election?

HARRIETTA, Mich. (AP) — This farming village of 200 hasn't had an election in three years. Village Clerk George Lipar says "the council felt they'd get elected anyway, so why waste the money?"

Under state law a village election should be held annually the first Monday in March.

"What's the use? The same old bunch is always reelected," said Councilman Louis Lipar, 70-year-old dairy farmer and father of the village clerk. "If anyone wanted an election they could sure get one if we had the money."

Disuse of the village's franchise came to the attention of state election officials when a resident complained. Wexford County Prosecutor James Herring said he would seek a court order for a special election.

The elder Lipar said the last time a village election was held was in 1955.

"Nobody wanted the election then, but we hadn't had one in three years and we just held one," he explained. "Didn't get much response—only 20 persons cast ballots."

Harrietta has 55 eligible voters.

Lipar said all the village officials have been in office 20 years or more and the feeling is that everybody here is happy with the way things are run.

"Besides," he said, "it costs $200 to hold an election. That is more than our $158 general fund budget."

Coal Truck Rams Flyer, 8 Are Hurt

MEDINA (AP) — A loaded coal truck rammed into the side of the Baltimore & Ohio's Chicago-bound Capitol Limited just south of nearby Lodi today, derailing 13 cars and injuring eight persons.

The derailed passenger cars remained upright, and the locomotive and first two cars were not derailed, Marshal H. M. Chapman of Lodi said.

At Lodi Hospital eight persons were brought in and six received emergency treatment and were released, a hospital spokesman said. The other two were reported in fair condition.

Marshal Chapman said the loaded coal truck, pulling a loaded trailer, was on a downgrade northbound on Ohio 76 when it struck the locomotive. He said that when he arrived, the truck driver and his helper were walking along the tracks, bleeding severely. He took both to the hospital.

Passengers on the train were removed to another train to continue their westbound trip.

The derailment was caused when the truck-diesel collision knocked the rails out of line

Truck Strikes Sheriff's Car

Joe D. Necessary, 20, Bristol, Tenn., found it necessary today to appear in Circleville Municipal Court after his truck struck a parked sheriff's department cruiser last night on Route 23 about two miles south of Circleville.

Necessary was fined $35 and costs on a reckless operation count filed by Deputy Charles Felkey. He appeared before Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Felkey, pulled off the highway checking out another car, said the cruiser's tail lights and blinker light were on at the time. The deputy was inside the car, but was not injured.

Fire Destroys Poultry Farm

A fire at noon today destroyed a combination garage and feed room and scorched a building which housed 4,000 young chickens at the J. Hay Poultry Farm Route 2, three miles northeast of Ashville, on Route 752.

The fire was started when a strong wind carried a trash fire into the garage. The fire waged out of control until 12:50, when the Ashville and Lithopolis Fire Departments finally brought it under control. Volunteers from both departments are still at the scene as the fire is burning under a straw pile. The garage and feed room were completely destroyed.

The Ashville Fire Department was notified at approximately 11:30 a.m. today and furnished a pumper and tanker. The Lithopolis Fire Department had two pumpers on hand. Approximately 15 volunteer firemen from both communities fought the fire.

Andy Ward, Ashville Fire Department secretary, said the garage held farm implements. He also said the farm house was scorched on one corner.

Ward said the fire was aided by a strong head wind. No estimate of damage was available at 1:30 p.m. today.

Stock Prices Continuing On Decline

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to slide in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

Losses of pivotal issues ran from fractions to around a point. A few key stocks rose against the trend.

Tobaccos did well. Steels, nonferrous metals, oils, chemicals, rails and most motors were lower.

It was a mild follow-through to Wednesday's sharp break, the steepest since Jan. 10.

Caution prevailed on the eve of a three-day market holiday. The New York Stock Exchange will be closed Good Friday.

U. S. Steel, Bethelehem and Republic steel dropped fractions but Youngstown Sheet was about unchanged.

Chrysler recouped a small fraction of its 1¼ loss of Wednesday.

Lorillard added a major fraction. American Tobacco was up around two points at one time then pared a fraction from the rise.

Kennecott dropped about a point and Phelps Dodge was firm. General Motors eased. Standard Oil (New Jersey) dropped a fraction.

Government bonds advanced.

gasps, and He tottered uncontrollably each time He advanced a foot.

Then, just as the prisoners came abreast of Simon, the Nazarene stumbled on a jutting cobblestone and pitched forward on the pavement. The board slammed against His back.

A soldier cursed. Another one, muttering, slid the board free, and the centurion came running up to get the prisoner back on His feet. Once up, the officer surveyed Him dubiously and shook his head.

Then his irritated gaze swept the crowd. Simon stood out, a natural physical specimen for a heavy load. The centurion jabbed a finger at him — "You!"

Simon eyed the soldier warily. He didn't like jumping to Roman commands. Then he glanced at the battered prisoner, and that puzzling attraction, another sort or command, rang in him.

He wiped his lips and strolled over beside the crossbeam. With a quick, easy dip of powerful arms, he swung it to his shoulder. Then he turned and for the first time his eyes met those of Jesus.

It was only an instant, but to Simon it held an eternity of affection received. Those eyes, despite all the man's mistreatment, swam with a strangely rich animation, with a deep knowledge and immense love.

There was something else, too, a sort of brotherliness, as if in the flash of a single look, He knew you utterly, through and through, and made you a cherished companion. There were no guarded reservations, no barriers in those eyes.

Never before had Simon felt so fully wanted, so genuinely needed and approved. It wasn't so much gratitude that he saw in that look, but a limitless understanding that smiled approval and kinship.

At a barked order, the procession resumed, and Simon stepped along beside the prisoner, hardly aware of the weight on his shoulder. It seemed light as straw, and he couldn't shake off a baffling sensation. He had an urge to thank this condemned man, Jesus, for the chance to carry the beam. It just didn't make sense, this feeling he had of being especially good and worthy, because he walked with this man to Calvary.

Jesus walked more steadily now, and Simon heard Him sigh with relief. It was about six furlongs (three fourths of a mile) out to the hill of crucifixion — called Golgotha, place of the skull.

No record tells what conversation passed between Simon and Jesus on that somber walk together, but it is possible that they spoke, that Jesus explained His lone, wonderful, terrible mission to the world.

"I am the good shepherd . . . I lay down my life for the sheep." A farmer would understand such language. ". . .I lay down My life, that I may take it again . . . He who believes in Me, though he die, yet shall he live again."

They reached the hill.

The prisoners were stripped, and laid on their backs while their outstretched arms were nailed to the crossbeams. These were then hoisted to the stakes, the beams lashed in place, and the victims' feet nailed to the stakes.

Simon could help Jesus no more. The hours of torture began the crawling, creeping, muscle-cramping, lung-constricting horror of crucifixion—the slow death of pain —one of the cruelest forms of execution ever devised.

Loud were the taunts. Bitter the mockery. And Jesus implored, "Father, forgive them. . ." The soldiers gambled, and the crowd gawked. "My God, my God. . ." The sky turned black and the earth shook. "It is finished!"

Slowly, Simon turned and walked away. The big African would never be the same again. His strong arms had taken him into the embrace of stronger arms still.

In the years afterward, Simon from Cyrene labored with Jesus' apostles, as did his two sons. He had discovered, suddenly and without plan, that life's greatest compensation came when he took up a cross and followed Jesus.

Tomorrow: The Watch at the Tomb.

'58 Model Huck Finns Born Too Late

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Huckleberry Finn has faded a little farther into the past.

Floating down a river was just good, clean fun in the day of Mark Twain's hero. But in Municipal Court Wednesday three teenagers learned that, legally, it's "loitering and trespassing."

Their lesson will cost them $75 each, payable within a year.

The Los Angeles River, unlike Huck Finn's, is paved, sides and bottom. Except during heavy storms it carries a trickle that will just about float a dead leaf.

Swollen with runoff Tuesday, the channel became a raging sluiceway—an adventurous challenge to George Hamlin, 19; Peter Van Duinwyk, 18; and Don Pullen, 19, all of suburban Reseda. They set sail on a rubber life raft, "just for fun."

It wasn't so funny when they lost their paddles.

Observers on shore reported their plight to police and fire departments. A helicopter used the windstream of its rotors to blow them to the bank. Police pulled them out, wet and disenchanted.

Any remaining appeal the escapade may have had vanished when Judge Parks Stillwell told them: "The fines you must pay won't come close to the amount spent in the rescue."

"I guess they wanted to re-enact a little of the Huckleberry Finn days," said the judge. "It's too bad they're in the wrong area and the wrong era. They were about 50 years too late."

Ohio Convict To See Own Song Published

COLUMBUS (AP) — Matthew Rycombel is doing his chores in the Roman Catholic chapel at Ohio Penitentiary today with a song in his heart and a contract in his pocket to publish that same song.

He has high hopes of being able to duplicate the feat of the famed fiction writer, O. Henry, who gained national attention for work he did inside the prison's walls.

The 36-year-old Rycombel, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., who was sent to prison from Cleveland, has written a song he says will be published. It's a waltz now entitled "The Ten Commandments of Love."

The title will be changed because another song uses it, something Rycombel learned from Joseph E. Zerga, vice president of the Beechwood Music Publishing Co. of Hollywood, Calif., which will publish the song. That company is associated with Capitol Records.

"It's the first song I ever sold," says Rycombel, who has been writing unpublished songs for 15 years. "I've got a lot more, but I won't send any more out until after I'm paroled."

The burglary of a laundry in Cleveland which netted him some clothing and about $5 in cash landed him in the penitentiary for a 1-15 year stretch in July of 1954. He expects parole in 1959.

channels so that orders will proceed directly to unified commands from the commander in chief and the secretary of defense."

3. "We must strengthen the military staff in the office of the secretary of defense in order to provide the commander in chief and the secretary with the professional assistance they need for strategic planning and for operational direction of unified commands."

It was under this point that Eisenhower said that in the future the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have the role of assisting the secretary of defense in his direction over unified command.

* * *

A PRESIDENTIAL aide, Bryce Harlow, said in reply to questions at a news conference that this is not a move toward creation of a general staff such as that in the old German military establishment.

4. "We must continue the three military departments as agencies within the Department of Defense to administer a wide range of functions."

But, Eisenhower added, under the new plan the civilian heads of the three services will be relieved of direct responsibility for military operations.

5. "We must reorganize the research and development functions of the department in order to make the best use of our scientific and technological resources."

6. "We must remove all doubts as to the full authority of the secretary of defense."

Eisenhower said the authority of the secretary of defense has been circumscribed and hedged about in a number of ways which not only make the burdens of his office far heavier than they need to be, but also work against the efficient and effective direction of national security activities.

Eisenhower left some members of Congress confused when he told his news conference Wednesday that the secretary of defense has "direct responsibility" for strategic planning and setting up the organization to carry it out.

Most members supposed this was the primary job of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—subject to civilian approval. Some of them said they would regard any change in this system as something to be looked into by Congress.

New Car Sales Make Jump Here

New car sales to Pickaway County residents during the month of March totaled 79, an increase of 34 over February. Other motor vehicles sold were 16 trucks, 11 station wagons, four house trailers, one school bus, two motor scooters and one motorcycle.

A total of 1,179 motor vehicles of all types, both new and used, changed hands in the county during March. This is 545 over February.

Automotive mortgages totaled 509. Cancellations of mortgages and liens numbered 324.

Chevrolet led the county in motor vehicle sales for the third straight month with 35. Ford was in second place with 18, Oldsmobile and Plymouth took the largest jump in sales with 14 and 13 respectively. Last month both sold three.

Other motor vehicles sold were Buick, eight; Dodge and International, three; Mercury, Cadillac, and Chrysler, two; DeSoto, Pontiac, Rambler and Volkswagon, one.

Board Acts On Transfer

The Pickaway County Board of Education held its monthly meeting last night in the county superintendent's office.

A resolution was passed assigning all assets and liabilities, of the newly transferred New Holland School District to the Miami Trace School District of Fayette County.

The equitable distribution of funds and indebtedness was in conformity to the journal entry on record in the Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Aw, Shucks! Why Hold An Election?

HARRIETTA, Mich. (AP) — This farming village of 200 hasn't had an election in three years. Village Clerk George Lipar says "the council felt they'd get elected anyway, so why waste the money?"

Under state law a village election should be held annually the first Monday in March.

"What's the use? The same old bunch is always reelected," said Councilman Louis Lipar, 70-year-old dairy farmer and father of the village clerk. "If anyone wanted an election they could sure get one if we had the money."

Disuse of the village's franchise came to the attention of state election officials when a resident complained. Wexford County Prosecutor James Herring said he would seek a court order for a special election.

The elder Lipar said the last time a village election was held was in 1955.

"Nobody wanted the election then, but we hadn't had one in three years and we just held one," he explained. "Didn't get much response—only 20 persons cast ballots."

Harrietta has 55 eligible voters.

Lipar said all the village officials have been in office 20 years or more and the feeling is that everybody here is happy with the way things are run.

"Besides," he said, "it costs $200 to hold an election. That is more than our $158 general fund budget."

Coal Truck Rams Flyer, 8 Are Hurt

MEDINA (AP) — A loaded coal truck rammed into the side of the Baltimore & Ohio's Chicago-bound Capitol Limited just south of nearby Lodi today, derailing 13 cars and injuring eight persons.

The derailed passenger cars remained upright, and the locomotive and first two cars were not derailed, Marshal H. M. Chapman of Lodi said.

At Lodi Hospital eight persons were brought in and six received emergency treatment and were released, a hospital spokesman said. The other two were reported in fair condition.

Marshal Chapman said the loaded coal truck, pulling a loaded trailer, was on a downgrade northbound on Ohio 76 when it struck the locomotive. He said that when he arrived, the truck driver and his helper were walking along the tracks, bleeding severely. He took both to the hospital.

Passengers on the train were removed to another train to continue their westbound trip.

The derailment was caused when the truck-diesel collision knocked the rails out of line

1958 Beta Better Satellite

The real significance of the Navy's feat in launching the Vanguard is that this rocket is a more complicated and advanced instrument than the Army Explorer. So the launching represents a distinct American advance in the missile race, and gives assurance of further progress. Jubilant satellite experts already are predicting that a satellite will be sent circling around the moon "within months."

The first American satellite, named Explorer I and designated "1958 Alpha" by International Geophysical Year officials, reached its orbit January 31 and by now has traveled approximately 20 million miles. The Navy's Vanguard is labeled "1958 Beta."

Both are small compared to the Soviet Sputniks launched last October and November. Alpha weighs 18 pounds, Beta 3½ pounds. The Russian jobs weighed 184 and 1,120 pounds, respectively.

The American satellites may have better instruments, and they are certainly expected to stay up longer. The first Sputnik fell after about three months. The second is still up, but its probable life was estimated at five to six months, so its end will probably come in April or May.

The American Explorer I is expected to stay up two to four years; the Vanguard, with a probable life of five to 10 years, may last until 1968. The Navy now has tied the score with the Army. Its "grapefruit" may send signals indefinitely from transmitters powered by solar batteries.

A Never-Ending Fight

Bacteria are a tough lot, as man is constantly being reminded. No sooner had medicine scientists, with their ingenuity, developed drugs and molds that seemed destined to deal bacteria and viruses a knockout blow than these public enemies, rolling with the punch, shifted into new and more virulent strains.

One of them, a new strain of staphylococcus, has turned up which resists antibiotics so well that the U. S. Public Health Service describes it as a national problem.

Looking over the evidence, it is easy to understand what the PHS means. Staphylococcus, despite its formidable name, is nothing more or less than the common bug, as old as history, which causes pimples and boils. For a while the new drugs dealt with it so successfully that some doctors and hospitals may have relaxed their defenses against it.

But the new drug-resistant strain of this ancient affliction is causing all sorts of new ailments never known to the Biblical Job. It is causing impetigo in infants, breats abscesses in mothers, blood potsoning, surgical infections, and pneumonia.

There have been outbreaks in some hospitals in various parts of the country. But the medical profession is now on the alert. The scientific ingenuity which licked staphylococcus once before can lick it again, whatever strange new form it may assume.

Most Principals Spare Rod

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That about 75 per cent of America's public school principals now have the authority to spank their pupils, but most spare the rod.

That most mama elephants rarely give birth to twins, and who can blame them?

That life does add up. At 70, you'll have eaten 75,000 meals and slept about 200,000 hours.

That the average American spends 20 minutes a day on the telephone, but this figure definitely doesn't apply to teenagers.

That more than 1,000 persons were killed and 100,000 injured last year in accidents caused by drivers swerving from objects thrown on the highway. The most common menace is discarded beer cans.

That even the names of postoffices can make a dieter hungry, such as Lamb, Ky., and Chicken, Alaska.

That, according to the Catholic Digest, 10 million Russians are studying English, but fewer than 8,000 Americans are studying Russian.

That a recent survey showed dandruff, as well as ulcers, is a high-tension occupational ailment among actors, newspapermen and advertising executives.

That another survey disclosed 66 per cent of the admen who carry briefcases home admit they don't open them until they get back to the office the next morning.

That April 20th is National Mother-in-law Day. Buy your present early and avoid the rush.

That a company has developed a closed circuit TV camera that can be used as an electronic baby sitter. It costs $1,265, but you don't have to leave food in the refrigerator for it or drive it home.

That, although the West seems to get tamer every year, wild burros have become a nuisance in California. Yet, that's right, wild burros.

That President Theodore Roosevelt had a rule of life the so-called "beat generation" could adopt today: "Do the best you can, with what you have, where you are."

Academy Awards Empty Show

By George Sokolsky

I watched the televised Oscar award show from Hollywood and found something missing. The emptiness persisted. The void made itself felt like a pain.

When what bothered me, like a ticking of a metronome in my memory, something that produced a sense of bad taste, it came to me that white ties and tails and shimmering dresses are not a cover for vulgarity, for bad manners, for lack of respect.

Only Kim Novak remembered. Only she said the one word that should have been said by others, perhaps with greater eloquence if more words and more gesgestures make for eloquence.

This Oscar show is the Motion Picture Industry's opportunity to speak of itself to the whole American people in its best language. It is the one occasion on which these men and women may tell all the world that they are indeed serious artists and people, different from the vulgar descriptions of many of their press agents and those specialists in the field who revel in the press agents' dreams.

Respectful people always remember their own dead. This year the motion picture world suffered great losses:

Louis B. Mayer, a pioneer of genius, the man who created the most effective expression of this art, Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer, and whose instinct for dramatic expression was responsible for so many stars and so many fine pictures, died.

Louis B. Mayer was an American who loved his country and who battled against every un-un-American influence in Hollywood, even when he believed that it touched his own company and his own household. It is the memory of Hollywood so short and sickly that there could not be a minute, even a second of silence to honor this father of their industry?

Harry Cohn was a keen observer of life and events, a battler to the top by skill and ingenuity. How many of those who sat in the Oscar show-house, hoping perhaps that the lightning of success might strike them, recalled, apart from Kim Novak, the man who selected them, taught them, helped them, made stars of them? Harry Cohn of Columbia Pictures died this year, died while at work.

Jesse Lasky, one of the pioneers of this industry, who came into it from vaudeville, was a leader in the development of the new art, one of the creators of Paramount, died this year.

Don Hartman, associate of many of those present on this occasion, for years, their friend, teacher and promoter, died this year.

And could they not spare just one minute or perhaps a second to rise to assuage of anguish of their colleague, Elizabeth Taylor, by remembering even by a token lowering of the eye-lids, Mike Todd, who was killed within the week, Mike Todd who brought into this decaying industry, new life, new vigor, the hope that stagnation would run before brilliance, as evil disappears before the good.

Hollywood employs producers, directors, technicians, experts, press agents, but what is required is not those whom they can employ to advertise their vices to attract a vulgar era, but those who can give these men and women guidance back to the simple vitues they learned at their mothers' knees, one of which is respect for the living and for the dead. And respect requires an acknowledgment of gratitude for those who smoothed the path of life. For no man or woman is self-made.

When John Ford, for instance, took a man off a truck and told him that he was an actor, he created a star. Can the man, in decency, forget that even he was not aware of his talent until someone told him and showed him how?

But there is a little more to this than the waywardness and conceit of show-folks. Involved are the manners of the age, the devil-may-care attitude of those who believe that manners and morals no longer matter, that anything goes today which puts a picture in a newspaper or makes a headline, or even for some, a mention in some gossiper's column.

But these are not enough. In fact, they are nothing at all. Our nation was strongest before women boasted over television on the things they can break as Zsa Zsa Gabor did on this occasion when another star, in gentle humility, recalled that Harry Cohn would have been pleased were he alive.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SWEET YOUNG THING toyed with the notion of signing up for a shorthand course. "When we get finished with you," promised the enrollment clerk, "you'll be accurate, dependable, and neat." "What about speed?" persisted the applicant. "Our last nine graduates," said the enrollment clerk calmly, "married their bosses inside of five months."

"How come a beautiful young girl like you was fired by that old wolf at the Third National?" the applicant for a job was asked. She explained demurely, "It was because of a mistake I wouldn't make."

Love in the second grade: Wrote Judy to the lad in front of her, "I love you. Do you love me?" The lad replied, "I do." "That's exactly what I didn't want to say," he explained to his dad that evening, "but I can't spell 'don't.'"

Child Needs Understanding

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Raising children, as all you parents fully realize, is not a simple job. There is a lot more to it than simply planning adequate meals for them, and seeing that they get plenty of sleep and medical and dental care when needed.

The growth of a youngster, you must understand, is a psychological process as well as a biological process. And you, as parens, must satisfy his needs for love and nderstanding as well as his needs for food and rest.

You must understand that he depends upon the entire family for his security.

While he needs to accomplish things and to achieve objectives to build his self-confidence, he still depends upon you, his parents, to make sure he stays within safe limits for his behavior, whether he is playing, visiting, or at home.

Quite often a child must be protected from his own violent efelings. Usually, it's up to the parents to help him understand his feelings through sympathy and firmness.

The most important factors in a child's development are the attitudes of his parents. You can do untold harm by blaming him without trying to understand his motives. Even worse, you can place him under a great handicap by shaming him.

Such things as eating, toilet training, even his playtime activities help determine a youngster's feelings of adequacy. They build his self-confidence. In fact, his eventual independence depends to a great extent on the training and help he gets in these basic needs

It is your duty, therefore, to understand—not just to try to understand — the motives behind your youngster's behavior.

As I said, it's not a simple job But, after all, you asked for it.

Question and Answer

J.J.: My daughter, who is 26 has episodes of staring into space blankly for a few minutes. These episodes have no particular relation to time.

After these episodes, she is somewhat confused and complains about dizziness and feels as though she could vomit.

What could be causing this?

Answer: It would seem from your description that your daughter is suffering from some type of brain irritation, probably a form of epilepsy.

It would be advisable for her to see a physician.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch, tall and still well-built at 87, gave his advice this week on the recession.

He was talking to the Senate Finance Committee. Listening to him was like watching time roll back a quarter century. On Feb. 13, 1933, he gave his advice to this same committee on ow to handle the depression.

What he said 25 years ago sounded strangely like what he was saying now. His advice was disregarded then. It may be disregarded now. Although he has been an adviser to every president since Wilson, his advice has often been ignored.

In 1933 — with 12 million people jobless just a month before Franklin D. Roosevelt became president — Baruch was warning against the dangers of inflation and advising: "To get people back to work . . . we must balance the budget."

His theme then: "Reduction in public expense is indispensable to recovery."

But when Roosevelt took office he did just the opposite from what Baruch suggested: he really unbalanced the budget with relief spending and ushered in a new concept of willingness to spend more money than the government takes in in revenue to get the economy back on its feet.

This week Baruch — ignoring any change in government philosophy — went back to his theme of 25 years ago.

He put his finger on inflation as the "biggest single peril to our economic health," rejected deficit spending as a solution to the present recession, opposed a tax cut, and even advocated a tax increase to keep the budget balanced if Congress votes big new spending programs.

But both the Eisenhower administration and the Democrats in Congress have talked of the likelihood of a tax cut if the recession gets much worse.

A tax increase would take a sharp bite out of Baruch's income, since he's a millionaire, but he's also a man who, in his long record of service to the government, never took a dime of salary or expense and in event spent his own money.

It's been estimated that he's spent more than a million dollars of his own money for government work.

When he read from his prepared paper, typed with oversized letters, Baruch put on a pair of glasses over those he was already wearing. He also wears a hearing aid that can be tuned up or off, as he pleases.

Baruch looks just as self-assured — and is just as gracious — as he was during World War II days when he was studying the rubber shortage for President Roosevelt.

Although he had a genius for making money on the stock market — he was a millionaire at 30 — his vision in other things wasn't always so acute. For example: In 1931, with the depression getting worse by the minute, he made a speech in which he said he could see prosperity returning.

1958 Beta Better Satellite

The real significance of the Navy's feat in launching the Vanguard is that this rocket is a more complicated and advanced instrument than the Army Explorer. So the launching represents a distinct American advance in the missile race, and gives assurance of further progress. Jubilant satellite experts already are predicting that a satellite will be sent circling around the moon "within months."

The first American satellite, named Explorer I and designated "1958 Alpha" by International Geophysical Year officials, reached its orbit January 31 and by now has traveled approximately 20 million miles. The Navy's Vanguard is labeled "1958 Beta."

Both are small compared to the Soviet Sputniks launched last October and November. Alpha weighs 18 pounds, Beta 3½ pounds. The Russian jobs weighed 184 and 1,120 pounds, respectively.

The American satellites may have better instruments, and they are certainly expected to stay up longer. The first Sputnik fell after about three months. The second is still up, but its probable life was estimated at five to six months, so its end will probably come in April or May.

The American Explorer I is expected to stay up two to four years; the Vanguard, with a probable life of five to 10 years, may last until 1968. The Navy now has tied the score with the Army. Its "grapefruit" may send signals indefinitely from transmitters powered by solar batteries.

A Never-Ending Fight

Bacteria are a tough lot, as man is constantly being reminded. No sooner had medicine scientists, with their ingenuity, developed drugs and molds that seemed destined to deal bacteria and viruses a knockout blow than these public enemies, rolling with the punch, shifted into new and more virulent strains.

One of them, a new strain of staphylococcus, has turned up which resists antibiotics so well that the U. S. Public Health Service describes it as a national problem.

Looking over the evidence, it is easy to understand what the PHS means. Staphylococcus, despite its formidable name, is nothing more or less than the common bug, as old as history, which causes pimples and boils. For a while the new drugs dealt with it so successfully that some doctors and hospitals may have relaxed their defenses against it.

But the new drug-resistant strain of this ancient affliction is causing all sorts of new ailments never known to the Biblical Job. It is causing impetigo in infants, breats abscesses in mothers, blood potsoning, surgical infections, and pneumonia.

There have been outbreaks in some hospitals in various parts of the country. But the medical profession is now on the alert. The scientific ingenuity which licked staphylococcus once before can lick it again, whatever strange new form it may assume.

Most Principals Spare Rod

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That about 75 per cent of America's public school principals now have the authority to spank their pupils, but most spare the rod.

That most mama elephants rarely give birth to twins, and who can blame them?

That life does add up. At 70, you'll have eaten 75,000 meals and slept about 200,000 hours.

That the average American spends 20 minutes a day on the telephone, but this figure definitely doesn't apply to teenagers.

That more than 1,000 persons were killed and 100,000 injured last year in accidents caused by drivers swerving from objects thrown on the highway. The most common menace is discarded beer cans.

That even the names of postoffices can make a dieter hungry, such as Lamb, Ky., and Chicken, Alaska.

That, according to the Catholic Digest, 10 million Russians are studying English, but fewer than 8,000 Americans are studying Russian.

That a recent survey showed dandruff, as well as ulcers, is a high-tension occupational ailment among actors, newspapermen and advertising executives.

That another survey disclosed 66 per cent of the admen who carry briefcases home admit they don't open them until they get back to the office the next morning.

That April 20th is National Mother-in-law Day. Buy your present early and avoid the rush.

That a company has developed a closed circuit TV camera that can be used as an electronic baby sitter. It costs $1,265, but you don't have to leave food in the refrigerator for it or drive it home.

That, although the West seems to get tamer every year, wild burros have become a nuisance in California. Yet, that's right, wild burros.

That President Theodore Roosevelt had a rule of life the so-called "beat generation" could adopt today: "Do the best you can, with what you have, where you are."

Academy Awards Empty Show

By George Sokolsky

I watched the televised Oscar award show from Hollywood and found something missing. The emptiness persisted. The void made itself felt like a pain.

When what bothered me, like a ticking of a metronome in my memory, something that produced a sense of bad taste, it came to me that white ties and tails and shimmering dresses are not a cover for vulgarity, for bad manners, for lack of respect.

Only Kim Novak remembered. Only she said the one word that should have been said by others, perhaps with greater eloquence if more words and more gesgestures make for eloquence.

This Oscar show is the Motion Picture Industry's opportunity to speak of itself to the whole American people in its best language. It is the one occasion on which these men and women may tell all the world that they are indeed serious artists and people, different from the vulgar descriptions of many of their press agents and those specialists in the field who revel in the press agents' dreams.

Respectful people always remember their own dead. This year the motion picture world suffered great losses:

Louis B. Mayer, a pioneer of genius, the man who created the most effective expression of this art, Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer, and whose instinct for dramatic expression was responsible for so many stars and so many fine pictures, died.

Louis B. Mayer was an American who loved his country and who battled against every un-un-American influence in Hollywood, even when he believed that it touched his own company and his own household. It is the memory of Hollywood so short and sickly that there could not be a minute, even a second of silence to honor this father of their industry?

Harry Cohn was a keen observer of life and events, a battler to the top by skill and ingenuity. How many of those who sat in the Oscar show-house, hoping perhaps that the lightning of success might strike them, recalled, apart from Kim Novak, the man who selected them, taught them, helped them, made stars of them? Harry Cohn of Columbia Pictures died this year, died while at work.

Jesse Lasky, one of the pioneers of this industry, who came into it from vaudeville, was a leader in the development of the new art, one of the creators of Paramount, died this year.

Don Hartman, associate of many of those present on this occasion, for years, their friend, teacher and promoter, died this year.

And could they not spare just one minute or perhaps a second to rise to assuage of anguish of their colleague, Elizabeth Taylor, by remembering even by a token lowering of the eye-lids, Mike Todd, who was killed within the week, Mike Todd who brought into this decaying industry, new life, new vigor, the hope that stagnation would run before brilliance, as evil disappears before the good.

Hollywood employs producers, directors, technicians, experts, press agents, but what is required is not those whom they can employ to advertise their vices to attract a vulgar era, but those who can give these men and women guidance back to the simple vitues they learned at their mothers' knees, one of which is respect for the living and for the dead. And respect requires an acknowledgment of gratitude for those who smoothed the path of life. For no man or woman is self-made.

When John Ford, for instance, took a man off a truck and told him that he was an actor, he created a star. Can the man, in decency, forget that even he was not aware of his talent until someone told him and showed him how?

But there is a little more to this than the waywardness and conceit of show-folks. Involved are the manners of the age, the devil-may-care attitude of those who believe that manners and morals no longer matter, that anything goes today which puts a picture in a newspaper or makes a headline, or even for some, a mention in some gossiper's column.

But these are not enough. In fact, they are nothing at all. Our nation was strongest before women boasted over television on the things they can break as Zsa Zsa Gabor did on this occasion when another star, in gentle humility, recalled that Harry Cohn would have been pleased were he alive.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A SWEET YOUNG THING toyed with the notion of signing up for a shorthand course. "When we get finished with you," promised the enrollment clerk, "you'll be accurate, dependable, and neat." "What about speed?" persisted the applicant. "Our last nine graduates," said the enrollment clerk calmly, "married their bosses inside of five months."

"How come a beautiful young girl like you was fired by that old wolf at the Third National?" the applicant for a job was asked. She explained demurely, "It was because of a mistake I wouldn't make."

Love in the second grade: Wrote Judy to the lad in front of her, "I love you. Do you love me?" The lad replied, "I do." "That's exactly what I didn't want to say," he explained to his dad that evening, "but I can't spell 'don't.'"

Child Needs Understanding

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Raising children, as all you parents fully realize, is not a simple job. There is a lot more to it than simply planning adequate meals for them, and seeing that they get plenty of sleep and medical and dental care when needed.

The growth of a youngster, you must understand, is a psychological process as well as a biological process. And you, as parens, must satisfy his needs for love and nderstanding as well as his needs for food and rest.

You must understand that he depends upon the entire family for his security.

While he needs to accomplish things and to achieve objectives to build his self-confidence, he still depends upon you, his parents, to make sure he stays within safe limits for his behavior, whether he is playing, visiting, or at home.

Quite often a child must be protected from his own violent efelings. Usually, it's up to the parents to help him understand his feelings through sympathy and firmness.

The most important factors in a child's development are the attitudes of his parents. You can do untold harm by blaming him without trying to understand his motives. Even worse, you can place him under a great handicap by shaming him.

Such things as eating, toilet training, even his playtime activities help determine a youngster's feelings of adequacy. They build his self-confidence. In fact, his eventual independence depends to a great extent on the training and help he gets in these basic needs.

It is your duty, therefore, to understand—not just to try to understand — the motives behind your youngster's behavior.

As I said, it's not a simple job. But, after all, you asked for it.

Question and Answer

J.J.: My daughter, who is 26 has episodes of staring into space blankly for a few minutes. These episodes have no particular relation to time.

After these episodes, she is somewhat confused and complains about dizziness and feels as though she could vomit.

What could be causing this?

Answer: It would seem from your description that your daughter is suffering from some type of brain irritation, probably a form of epilepsy.

It would be advisable for her to see a physician.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch, tall and still well-built at 87, gave his advice this week on the recession.

He was talking to the Senate Finance Committee. Listening to him was like watching time roll back a quarter century. On Feb. 13, 1933, he gave his advice to this same committee on ow to handle the depression.

What he said 25 years ago sounded strangely like what he was saying now. His advice was disregarded then. It may be disregarded now. Although he has been an adviser to every president since Wilson, his advice has often been ignored.

In 1933 — with 12 million people jobless just a month before Franklin D. Roosevelt became president — Baruch was warning against the dangers of inflation and advising: "To get people back to work . . . we must balance the budget."

Crime Movies Given Study

FBI Chief Urging Soft-Pedal on Thugs

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is there too much crime in movies?

The question arose last week when FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover appealed to the film industry to soft-pedal films glorifying crime.

Hoover wrote Eric Johnston, head of the movie producers: "As a law enforcement officer, I am deeply concerned by an apparent trend in the motion picture field. . . . The matter relates to motion pictures which traverse the bounds of common decency and result in the glorification of the gangster and his elevation as a false idol for American youth. . . ."

The "trend" was caused by the amazing success of the Mickey Rooney film "Baby Face Nelson." But the producers' association says only two films are now slated to follow in Nelson's bloody footsteps.

One is "Machine Gun Kelly," now completed. The other is "The Bonnie Parker Story," in production. Both come from an independent company. There has been talk of films on Pretty Boy Floyd and others, but none has materialized.

A spokesman for the production code office told me what is being done about crime pictures.

"We can't stop the making of films about crime," he explained. "The code revisions of a year ago did away with many restrictions on such matters as kidnaping, dope, tommy guns, etc.

"What we can do is prohibit the sympathetic portrayal of criminals and we are strict about that. Also, we can try to limit excessive brutality—the mass slaughter of citizens with tommy guns, etc."

Most of the crime films are made by independents, he pointed out. The code has no control over the quickie makers, yet many of them submit their scrips to the Johnston office. The reason: they expect less trouble with censors throughtout the United States and the world if they have a code seal.

Anti-crop survey signs are displayed by some of the "visitors." The sheriff counted 215 "visitors" and 98 autos in the crowd at the Whiteleather farm.

Farmers crowd around federal crop survey auto, barring it. Right: Dr. Whiteleather (left) takes names of the crop survey agents, who asked if they were barred. Said he, "I refuse with all the determination at my command."

GOES AGAINST THE GRAIN—These were the tense scenes at the farm of Dr. P. Scott Whiteleather in Ohio's Columbiana county as more than 200 "visiting" farmers joined him in refusing federal crop survey agents a wheat crop survey. Dr. Whiteleather has operated his 150-acre farm "on the side" for 12 years, and has a perfect record of crop survey prosecutions except for one year when he was skipped. His car has been impounded and will be sold for a past overplanting debt if he does not pay by May 10, and he said he wouldn't. (International)

One hundred twenty-six persons were present at Derby Sunday School last Sunday. At the Sunday School and worship services, both the senior and junior choirs took part in the music. Rev. Brown used as his subject "Triumph". Two small children were baptised and one boy taken into membership with the church. An Easter party is to be held at the church on Saturday afternoon, with a short program at 1 o'clock. This will be followed with an Easter egg hunt by the youngsters.

• • •

On Sunday morning there will be Sunrise service at 6:30 followed by Easter breakfast at 8 o'clock. The breakfast will be held at IOOF Hall.

• • •

At 9:30 a. m. Sunday a union worship service will be held at Derby Church for Greenland and Derby churches. A union Sunday School service will follow the worship service at the church. All of these services will be inerspersed with music by the senior and junior choirs. Red Deputy Premier Mikoyan Labeled Adroit, Talented

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

Anastase I. Mikoyan, one of Nikita Khrushchev's two first deputy premiers, stands out as one of the most able, adroit and talented of top-rank Soviet leaders. His promotion back to his old rank shows the high value Khrushchev puts on his skill and experience.

His continuance in high office has particular importance in the international sphere. Though he cannot be called a friend of the West by any stretch of the imagination, Mikoyan probably takes a more realistic attitude toward dealing with the West than any other man of weight in Soviet policy circles.

Mikoyan's position in the Kremlin is unique on a number of counts:

1. As an Armenian he is one of only two nonSlavs in the top strata. The other is a very junior member — Nuritdin Mukhitdinov from Uzbekistan.

2. Mikoyan is one of only four Old Bolsheviks — party members before 1917 — in the ranks of the Communist party's ruling Presidium. And he is the only Old Bolshevik of actual importance in the leadership.

3. Mikoyan has had longer continuous experience in high-level Soviet affairs than any other of the present Soviet leaders. He was named a candidate member of the Politburo in 1926 and a full member in 1935.

4. Mikoyan is one of the most outspoken of Soviet leaders. His sharp tongue antagonized his old friend and drinking crony, Stalin, and almost led to his being purged.

Mikoyan joined the Communist party in 1915. He held important posts in Communist party affairs from the Revolution on, continuously. He became Stalin's expert on foreign and domestic trade and long occupied the post of minister of foreign trade.

After Stalin's death Mikoyan was one of the most outspoken of the leaders in criticism of Stalinism — and one of Khrushchev's closest allies.

Auto Production Cut 500,000

DETROIT (AP) — The auto industry built an estimated 1,244,000 passenger cars in the first quarter of 1958. This was more han 500,000 fewer units than were built in the comparable period of last year.

With the sharp drop in factory output, forced upon the industry to halt mounting inventories at the dealer level, chances of a six-million-unit output this year apparently have completely disappeared. But there still are some among the industry sales chiefs who say 5½ million assemblies still are possible.

At last count, dealer-held cars were close to the 900,000 unit mark—only a few thousand fewer than the record-smashing figure of March 1, 1956.

Crime Movies Given Study

FBI Chief Urging Soft-Pedal on Thugs

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Is there too much crime in movies?

The question arose last week when FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover appealed to the film industry to soft-pedal films glorifying crime.

Hoover wrote Eric Johnston, head of the movie producers: "As a law enforcement officer, I am deeply concerned by an apparent trend in the motion picture field. . . . The matter relates to motion pictures which traverse the bounds of common decency and result in the glorification of the gangster and his elevation as a false idol for American youth. . . ."

The "trend" was caused by the amazing success of the Mickey Rooney film "Baby Face Nelson." But the producers' association says only two films are now slated to follow in Nelson's bloody footsteps.

One is "Machine Gun Kelly," now completed. The other is "The Bonnie Parker Story," in production. Both come from an independent company. There has been talk of films on Pretty Boy Floyd and others, but none has materialized.

A spokesman for the production code office told me what is being done about crime pictures.

"We can't stop the making of films about crime," he explained. "The code revisions of a year ago did away with many restrictions on such matters as kidnaping, dope, tommy guns, etc.

"What we can do is prohibit the sympathetic portrayal of criminals and we are strict about that. Also, we can try to limit excessive brutality—the mass slaughter of citizens with tommy guns, etc."

Most of the crime films are made by independents, he pointed out. The code has no control over the quickie makers, yet many of them submit their scrips to the Johnston office. The reason: they expect less trouble with censors throughtout the United States and the world if they have a code seal.

Anti-crop survey signs are displayed by some of the "visitors." The sheriff counted 215 "visitors" and 98 autos in the crowd at the Whiteleather farm.

Farmers crowd around federal crop survey auto, barring it. Right: Dr. Whiteleather (left) takes names of the crop survey agents, who asked if they were barred. Said he, "I refuse with all the determination at my command."

GOES AGAINST THE GRAIN—These were the tense scenes at the farm of Dr. P. Scott Whiteleather in Ohio's Columbiana county as more than 200 "visiting" farmers joined him in refusing federal crop survey agents a wheat crop survey. Dr. Whiteleather has operated his 150-acre farm "on the side" for 12 years, and has a perfect record of crop survey prosecutions except for one year when he was skipped. His car has been impounded and will be sold for a past overplanting debt if he does not pay by May 10, and he said he wouldn't. (International)

Louisiana Mission To Get White Priest

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The small Roman Catholic mission of St. Cecilia's at nearby Jesuit Bend, scene of a racially tinted row more than two years ago, will reopen Sunday for Easter services. A white priest will say mass.

The mission, about 20 miles south of here, was closed after parishioners objected to a Negro priest, the Rev. Gerald Lewis, assigned there Oct. 2, 1955.

Ohio Girl Gets Melon

PORT CLINTON (AP) — A watermelon, flown in Wednesday from South America, brightened the waning life of Jean Valance, 13, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor last December.

YOU'LL FIND IT relaxing to elevate feet. Prop 'em up on the back of a chair while you catch up on telephone calls. It's a wonderful way to make tired feet feel good again.

In Step With SPRING

Put Spring in your step!

Feet have been taking a beating. They've trotted through snow, wind, slush and just plain cold weather. It's time they were pampered!

Give them a special bath.

Prepare a basin of warm water. Toss in a handful of salt. Soak feet for a few minutes, then dry them with a soft towel.

Elevate feet for 20 minutes while you read a book or catch up on telephone calls. You'll find this routine so relaxing you'll want to put it on the nightly schedule.

Try a leg massage, too. Use a velvety body lotion, working it into the muscles at the back of your leg. Use both hands with a slow, rolling motion from ankle to bone.

This workout will put you in the mood for eight hours of sound, healthy sleep. When you wake up, you'll feel as though you've grown a new pair of feet. You'll keep feeling that way, too, if you wear the right shoes.

Choose those that are all-leather, with uppers in the new spring-weight leathers that are soft as down. Resilient leather soles will make for walking ease, enable you to step out in comfort.

Make feet look pretty in pumps that are Spring bright. New shoe colors include comanche red flight blue, coral and turquoise. At least one of these shades should appear on your shoe rack.

FEET NEED pampering. Treat them to a foot bath. Throw a handful of salt into a basin of warm water and soak them.

Weeky Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Turkeys are forcing the traditional Easter ham to share top billing on the holiday menu this year.

Supermarket chains and neighborhood groceries are offering the onetime Thanksgiving - only bird alongside smoked and fresh ham as their No. 1 attraction for the holiday weekend. This is partly due to turkey's increasing popularity as a year-round food and partly due to prices.

Hams are more expensive than normal for Easter because buyers bid up slim stocks of porkers. Hog marketings are running about 5 per cent below last year and warehouse supplies on March 1 were off one-third from a year ago. Pork prices may ease for a few weeks now, livestock men say, then climb to a seasonal high this summer before dropping sharply in the fall.

Turkeys, on the other hand, are plentiful.

Some stores are offering higher-priced cuts such as rib roast of beef and sirloin or porterhouse steaks for the holiday. Chuck roast and hamburger are missing for the week.

Butter is down 1 to 6 cents a pound in some areas and egg prices are down 2 to 10 cents a dozen, as predicted, over a wide area.

Best buys among vegetables are carrots, topped beets, turnips and peas.

1 Drink by Woman, 80, Makes Her Alcoholic

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman became an alcoholic after downing her first drink at the age of 80—a group of business men studying the economic impact of alcoholism was told Tuesday.

Dr. Harold W. Lovell, a psychiatrist, cited the woman's case as proof that many persons are potential alcoholics.

Toledo's 'Moon Money' Plan May Spread Across Nation

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Science teacher Erwin Feltz read a news story the other day to the effect that American taxpayers would pay a dime each between now and Dec. 31 for space satellites.

"Think what the nation could do," he told his wife across the breakfast table, "if everyone contributed a dime voluntarily and the tax money could be used for other space projects."

The 29-year-old Feltz discussed the idea with his superiors at Washington Township Junior High School, got nods of approval, and launched "Project Moon Money" at the school Tuesday.

In the morning, Feltz used the public address system to describe the project to the school's 1,310 seventh, eighth and ninth-graders. By late afternoon, "Project Moon Money" already had approximately $90 to its credit in dimes, nickels and pennies and even a few bills.

"One boy donated three dollars," Feltz said. "I tried to persuade him to give a smaller amount, but he told me it was his money and he would do what he wanted with it."

Feltz said he and other teachers at the school hope the plan will spread throughout all schools in the nation.

"If the kids come through, maybe the adults will get behind the plan, too," he said. "And with a population of around 170 million, just think of the money that could be raised."

"We think a program like this can help the United States get ahead of the Russians in space and keep ahead," he added.

One problem still ahead of Project Moon Money is what to do with the funds it raises. Feltz is making inquiries to find what governmental agency could accept the money for the space program.

TV Producer Leaves NBC, Joins CBS

NEW YORK (AP)—After two years of sitting around practically doing nothing at NBC-TV, Fred Coe is now at work as a producer for CBS-TV.

As the original producer of NBC's famous and extinct Television Playhouse, Coe helped to develop some of the medium's finest writers and performers. He produced "Marty" and headed the TV staff that gave the nation Mary Martin in "Peter Pan." He was executive producer of Mr. Peepers and Producers' Showcase.

For reasons altogether strange, NBC-TV found nothing for him to do this season except to serve as production executive of "Annie, Get Your Gun." Coe, 43, has put the past year to good use, however. He produced his first movie, "The Left-Handed Gun," for Warner Brothers. And he produced his second Broadway show, the hit "Two for the Seesaw," starring Henry Fonda and Anne Bancroft.

Back in television once more, Coe's first assignment at CBS-TV will be to produce "The Red Mill" for Show of the Month from Hollywood April 19. Beginning in the fall he will produce several Playhouse 90 dramas.

Discussing the Victor Herbert operetta before he left for Hollywood, Coe said: "We're trying to assume how 'The Red Mill,' written in 1908, would be done today if it were a new show. Our ear for music has changed just as has our ear for words. Today Herbert's music sounds lush and overly romantic.

The Ocean Frontier

In Another Century, World Must Find Its Food in Sea

By EVERETT S. ALLEN
New Bedford Standard-Times
(Written for The Associated Press)

If the world's population—about 2¾ billion—triples during the next century, and it is expected to, humanity must turn to the oceans for new sources of food to maintain its living standards.

The land masses of the world are being rapidly depleted of basic resources. The sea is still a bulging storehouse, not only of proved techniques could pry from the ocean bottom — but of enormous quantities of foodstuffs.

In terms of food, the sea can actually outproduce the land. A New England harbor, properly cultivated, could produce nine tons of clam meat per acre annually—three times the amount of comparable food an Ohio farmer could produce on one acre.

Eventually, marine scientists say, the oceans may be stirred artificially to bring up nutrients from the botom so sunlight can get at them and so increase the sea's productivity of food stuffs.

Here's one way in which this process is envisaged:

In most areas, a vertical pipe shoved down into the sea would carry a stream of water either up or down, once it was started, and if uninterrupted would go on indefinitely.

This is because ocean surface water is saltier and, therefore, heavier, than deep water, when the two are at the same temperature. As surface water goes down the pipe, it tends to be cooled to the same temperature as the water outside the pipe — but being heavier because of its salinity, it keeps on flowing downward.

It works in the opposite direction. If bottom water is started up the pipe, it ends to get warmer. But because bottom water is slightly fresher, it also is lighter than the surface water surrounding it, so it tends to rise and flow out the top of the pipe.

The French government is experimenting with a system of such pipes. In this instance, it is trying to produce fresh water from the ocean by applying the salinity differences to a distilling process. But the operation would serve very well to "stir" the sea for increased food production.

Presently, man is neglecting great areas of the ocean's nutritional potential. Of some 16,000 species of marine life, only a dozen or so are used commercially to any significant extent. Thousands of others, including such unlikely sounding candidates as barnacles, could make valuable contributions.

Some steps toward more intense exploitation of the sea are already being taken. The British are seeking to utilize the nutritional properties of seaweed in commercial quantities. The South Africans have a fish meal project providing an inexpensive protein source for human consumption.

It is possible, marine scientists say, to make money with a fish product selling for as little as 1½ cents a pound; ways could doubtless be found to convert food fish into some form, perhaps like sausage meat, that could be stored and shipped without canning and freezing.

Further, in the ocean, the absence of fences or lines of ownership makes it difficult to introduce the element of systematic cultivation even though this is highly desirable from the standpoint of increased marine productivity.

But it is only a question of time before a marine-minded country in search of cheap foodstuffs will start a large-scale marine agricultural station.

World Conference OKs Israeli Ships

GENEVA (AP) — A new principle of international law was approved Wednesday, in effect legalizing passage of Israeli ships through Arab waters to Israel's southern port of Eilat on the Tiran Straits.

The 87-nation Conference on the Law of the Sea approved the principle 3130.

It provides for passage of foreign ships through straits connecting the high seas with the territorial waters of a coastal state.

Egypt and Saudi Arabia claim the straits are territorial waters and blocked passage to Israeli ships until Israel invaded Egypt in 1956. Since then a detachment of the U. N. Emergency Force has kept the straits open to Israeli ships trading with Africa and Asia.

Capital Cherry Blooms Still Haven't Appeared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's famed cherry blossoms, which didn't make it in time for last week's Cherry Blossom Festival, won't be around for Easter either.

Capital park horticulturists say full blooms aren't expected for at least 10 more days.

A. Some types of cancer can be treated with chemicals. Other types require the use of radium, surgery, x-ray, and radioactive substances. These are accepted treatment methods. Watch out for "sure cures" for cancer offered under fancy names and at fancy prices. One fellow who called himself "doctor" (he had a high school diploma from a correspondence school) charged $400 for his "cure" which consisted of a "tonic" and some vitamin pills. Q. Is cancer contagious?

A. So far as is known, human cancer cannot be passed from one person to another by contact.

Q. Can you inherit cancer?

A. Experts say that cancer in several members of one family can occur just by chance. Although it's hard to pin down, heredity does seem to play a part, at least in certain types of cancer. As one doctor explains it, all we inherit from

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem is one of habit—a habit I feel is growing more difficult to break. We are a working couple with no children.

At the end of a hard day at the office, my husband enjoys a before-dinner drink. And I am quite willing to relax with him and enjoy this interval before starting on the evening chores.

This "pause that refreshes" is a daily routine; and during the past year I should say that our drinking has increased to two or perhaps three cocktails each before dinner. However, we don't drink after dinner, unless we have guests, or it is a special occasion.

My husband very seldom "goes out with the boys." Nor does he drink to excess. But I have a growing uneasiness that he is (or perhaps I should say we are) drinking too much. I want to take an objective view of the situation and don't want to deprive him of this hour or so of relaxation at home—if the lack of it would drive him out of the house to seek relaxation elsewhere.

Perhaps you can give me your viewpoint on the problem. That is, if I have a problem.

F.P.

DEAR F.P.: If you feel that you have a problem about drink — and there are many and subtle problems connected with drinking — it makes sense to examine the possibility. And if necessary, take steps to solve the problem, or bring it under control.

In so-called social drinking, there is always the possibility that the drinker who drinks from choice (not compulsively), as an aid to relaxation, may fall into a habit of developing a thirst for a highball or cocktail at "the usual time" every day.

As a matter of fact, an habitual drinker of tea or coffee likewise may become a slave of habit, unless on guard to retain self mastery.

When, as and if a commanding thirst begins to take over, dictating what you must do on the score of self indulgence, to prevent discomfort at a given hour, day or evening, the time has come to break up that habit pattern — at least temporarily. Or maybe permanently, if that's the only way to keep yourself flexibly free, in the use of your time.

As I see the picture, your present problem with drink isn't grave. But a problem exists, or you wouldn't be worrying — by which I mean, a problem is dawning. And the thing to do is to use your head, to nip it in the bud.

For example, a world famous columnist wrote, some years ago, about her Christmas resolution to cut her weight down, from 175 to 140 pounds. Her aim was to fit into a beautiful sweater that a daughter-in-law had given her.

One of the requirements of her slimming regime was to discover an acceptable substitute for the calorieladen alcoholic drinks she'd been sipping, moderately, before dinner as the usual thing. As I recall her report, she valued that pattern of relaxation— when, drink at hand, she rehashed the events of the day with those nearest and dearest to her. She didn't want to give up the patern; and she didn't.

Instead she switched from the taboo beverages to a list of palatably seasoned vegetable juices, in frugal amounts. And she learned that the results in pleasure (for herself at least) were about the same as before, while the reduction in weight was considerable.

She went on to say (in effect) that it's not so much what's in the glass, as it is the social pattern of the before-dinner drink, the loitering over intimate conversation with chosen people, in a spirit of mutual interest, that makes it a relaxing, refreshing, unifying occasion for those assembled. You might apply her formula to your problem, and see how it works.

M.H.

Supreme Court Rules Grain In Storage Free from Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday affirmed a decision by the State Board of Tax Appeals and ruled that grain held in government storage is not subject to tangible personal property tax. The board had reversed the local assessments.

The court said that "under terms of the note and loan agreements, wheat in storage is not property of the producer and, therefore, not taxable."

State Tax Commissioner Stanley J. Bowers said the unanimous decision made thousands of Ohio farmers who paid the tax after 1955 eligible for refunds. He pointed out that the tax will continue to apply to grain stored by farmers without obtaining a government loan.

The assessments were challenged by Flora A. Goodrich of near New Albany (Franklin County) for grain stored on her farm under a "farm storage loan" with the Commodity Credit Corp., and Ray H. Maddox and Kermit Grener for wheat stored in a Fayette County grain elevator.

In the Goodrich case, the state board said that since the government had control of the wheat and could order it shipped elsewhere on the tax listing date of Jan. 1, 1956, the wheat was "not used in business" and thus was not taxable.

In the cases of Maddox and Grener, the board ruled that Commodity Credit acquired full title to the stored wheat when it took over the producers' warehouse receipts.

The board added that the right of producers to reclaim the equivalent of their stored wheat, in event the market price should exceed the price paid, is a qualified right which Commodity Credit had discretion to take away.

In another case the high court decided to hear an appeal from Franklin County courts, which dismissed a suit involving a reimbursement for loss of billboard rights on property acquired by the state for highway purposes.

The county court had denied the Ohio Valley Advertising Co. $37,297 for 20 billboards along Ohio 7 between Bellaire and Bridgeport in Belmont County.

The lower court held that the company merely leased sites for the signs without having an interest in the condemned land. The company, however, contended it was deprived of property rights without compensation.

Throwing of Brick At Dog Costs $530

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — James Candy, 40, paid $530 in a damage suit for throwing a brick at a dog for tearing up his lawn.

Harold Vance, owner of the 5-year-old sheepdog, put her on the witness stand as mute testimony she had lost the sight of one eye.

The judge told Candy stonily:

"I cannot understand how a man can take a brick and throw it with such force at this little dog. It is most fortunate you are not before me on a criminal charge."

Moving Living Standard Up Is Not Easy

Wages, Taxes, Prices Make Up Eternal Triangle in Home

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The eternal triangle in most homes these days: wages, taxes, prices.

Moving up into a higher income bracket has been the happy lot of many American families in the last 20 years. The majority managed to translate this into a higher standard of living. But it isn't as easy as it sounds.

Taxes have bitten deep into the wage and salary increases. Lately state and local taxes have been rising faster than federal.

And prices have soared so high that the income increases had to be substantial for the family just to stand still in terms of purchasing power.

When anyhing happens to shrink this income even a little — loss of overtime pay, shorter work weeks, smaller profits from the family store, lowered dividends—the hurt comes quickly.

A married couple with two children who take the usual deductions in computing income returns would have to have a gross income of $6,457 in 1958 to be actually as well off as they were in 1939 earning $3,000.

Federal income and social security taxes took $30 out of gross income in 1939 and will take $772 out of the higher 1958 gross.

More, the loss in purchasing power of the dollar through inflation whittles $2,765 from the $6,457 gross of 1958 in terms of 1939 dollars, based on the consumer price index of the National Industrial Conference Board.

So in terms of the 1939 dollar, the real spending potential of the family with a $3,000 income in 1939 and a $6,457 income today is the same — $2,970.

On the same basis of figuring purchasing power after the double squeeze of taxes and inflation, the family with a $5,000 income in 1939 must get $11,140 this year to come out even. What was left over after federal taxes in 1939 was $4,941—the same figure left over today after the much higher taxes and the huge bit of inflation.

But many families live better today than before the war without having doubled their incomes—although none could if their incomes hadn't gone up at all.

There are several reasons. For one, any index of the cost of living is based on what the average family is presumed to spend on many goods and services. Lots of folks spend nothing on many of these items.

For another, cost cutting manufacturing processes have kept the prices of a lot of today's necessities (1939's luxuries) from rising as much as the general trend of all goods and services.

Corn Curb Fails; Agency Tells Why

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department came up with a detailed report today showing why its control program for corn has failed to hold down surpluses of the crop.

A check of farm plantings under the program last year showed the agency said, that only 14 per cent of the acreage was grown in compliance with the program.

The program set a planting allotment of 37,289,000 acres for a designated commercial producing area comprising 894 counties in 24 Midwestern, Eastern and Southeastern states. This allotment was apportioned among individual farms and only those complying with their allotments became eligible for full price support protection.

The commercial area planted 52,793,000 acres or 15,504,000 more than the allotment. The crop turned out to be third largest of record.

The number of farms complying with their allotments was 38.6 per cent of the total. This meant that there was a higher percentage of compliance among small farms than among larger ones. Compliance by farms ranged from 68.3 per cent in Arkansas counties in the commercial area to 24.7 per cent in Wisconsin.

In Iowa, one of the top corn states, 11½ per cent of the acreage and 28.4 per cent of the farms were in compliance. In Illinois, another big producer, the figures were 14.7 per cent of the acreage and 37.8 per cent of the farms.

This low level of compliance has been cited by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a reason why the program should be abandoned and farmers left free to plant whatever acreage they desired. He, of course, would provide lower price supports.

The agriculture committee of the House is considering a plan under which growers would be given an opportunity to vote on elimination of the allotment program.

Detroit Cops Crack Down On Hoodlums

DETROIT (AP)—Police continued their crackdown on school ground loiterers today after four acts of violence in two days. Two teachers were attacked and three youths stabbed in the outbreaks.

Three youths were held for questioning after Richard Christian, 31, a white teacher at Washington Trade School, was pelted with rocks and roughed up by four young Negroes on the school's playground.

The day before, Mrs. Ethel Tincher, 45, a teacher at Denby High School, was beaten by two youths she found loitering in the halls during class hours. She is white and identified her assailants as white. She said she did not think they were Denby students.

Andrew Jones, 15, was stabbed twice in the back and Robert King, 17, was slashed on the side of the head in a fight with another youth, Eric Roby, 15, in the basement of McMichael Junior High School near downtown Detroit. All are Negroes and students at the school.

Police reported Shelby Hereford, 14, was stabbed in the side and injured seriously. He said he and another boy were playing with knives on the playground at Jacoby School. He identified his companion as Robert Garton, 14. Both are Negroes.

Clarence Sailor, William Chisholm and Thomas Hill, all 18, were arrested for investigation of felonious assault a few hours after Christian reported that four Negro youths attacked him. He said he had sought to question them when they walked into a baseball game he was refereeing. The three youths are not students at the school.

State Ruling Given On Judges' Pay

COLUMBUS (AP) — The attorney general has ruled that while Ohio law allows county commissioners to hike the salary of a county judge as much as $1,000 annually, the state's constitution prevents any such increase during an existing term.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's opinion had been asked by Auglaize County Prosecutor James I. Shaw in the cases of two county judges whose work loads in St. Marys and Wapakoneta had turned out to be greater than anticipated.

In another opinion, Saxbe ruled that county commissioners have an absolute duty to erect guard rails at certain points specified by law, and failure to do so makes the county liable for damages.

Clinton Air Base Gets Fund of $1.7 Million

CINCINNATI (AP) — Approximately $1.7 million has been made available for additional building at the Clinton County Air Force Base at Wilmington, it was announced today.

Col. Joseph Friedlander Jr., Air Force installations representative here, said the money will be used for a 68,000 square foot maintenance reserve hangar and an expansion to the base's central heating plant.

65 Workers Recalled

IRONTON (AP) — Resumption of production in the mixed fertilizer section has enabled the nitrogen division of Allied Chemical and Dye Corp. at nearby South Point to recall 65 employes laid off early in March.

New Boston Seeking Aid for Unemployed

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—New Boston, a town of approximately 5,000 within the corporate limits of Portsmouth, Wednesday asked President Eisenhower and Gov. C. William O'Neill for financial aid for its unemployed.

Mayor Vernal Riffe said the relief burden was growing because of an increased number of jobless, due to curtailment of operations at the New Boston plant of the Detroit Steel Corp. The mill plans to cut employment from 4,000 to 1,500.

Last Honor Farm Escapee Is Nabbed

ELYRIA (AP) — Robert L. Robinson, 19, of Toledo, was the last of four prisoners to be rounded up late Wednesday after an escape from the Osborne State Honor Farm.

Robert R. Moneyham, 21, and Leroy E. Blair, 22, also of Toledo, and Richard Hoffman, 23, of Columbus, were captured shortly after the quartet fled early Wednesday in a guard's car. All were brought to the Lorain County jail.

Social Barrier Seen in Britain

LONDON (AP)—A British government committee, which wants business firms to ease rush hour traffic by staggering working hours, has hit a social barrier.

Most London businesses now open at 9 a. m. The committee, seeking to persuade part of them to unlock their doors half an hour earlier, reported: "One large city organization, who considered an 8:30 a. m. start, reported that their female staff objected to the proposal on the ground that such an early start, suggestive of factory hours, would involve a loss of social prestige."

Officer Wounds Man After Tavern Ruckus

AKRON (AP) — Patrolman Carl Godfrey, 29, left his traffic duties long enough late Wednesday to wound and capture a bar patron who had started firing at random in a downtown grill.

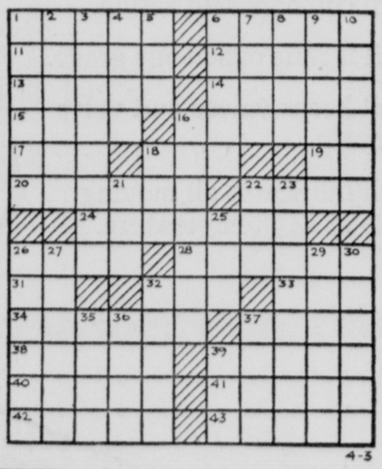

The gunman was identified as James Anderson Alexander, about 40, who suffered a stomach wound. The patrolman was unhurt, but a stray shot from Alexander's gun hit the foot of another bar patron, James Anthony.

'Sack' Invades Even Fashions Of Nursery

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Never let it be said that America's younger set doesn't keep up with the fashion parade.

The chemise now has swept the kindergarten crowd, and small glamor girls are proudly showing off their new beltless, casual spring dresses.

For the small fry, two styles are favorites — the middy with the pleated skirt and the straight full dress that hangs free from a shoulder yoke, in line with the trapeze silhouette launched for spring by Yves Saint-Laurent, the new head in the house of Dior.

Little girls look cute as buttons in these new frocks, which faithfully follow grown-up trends. After all, when you're only four years old, you don't worry too much about your feminine form — and your knees are still dimpled, so you don't mind showing them.

Here is one age group in which the chemise silhouette meets no opposition. Even Daddy approves of his small daughter in the new sack look.

The new children's dresses for spring are practical too. Many are available in the new easycare fabrics and finishes which can be washed and drip dried without ironing. Others are in fine cotton broadcloth and linen with new finishes which make them spot and wrinkle resistant.

They come in white, the full range of pastels and smart dark colors such as chocolate brown and navy.

WED AGAIN—Dominick Elwes, 26, and bride, the former Tessa Kennedy, 19, pause for the photographer after their marriage in New York. This followed their Cuba marriage, which was in Spanish and not understandable to Tessa. She is the daughter of British shipping magnate who opposed their marriage. (International)

Rock 'n' Roll Diet Said Hard on Kids

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — "A rock 'n' roll diet is making an under-nourished race out of millions of teen-agers," says the president of the New Jersey Farm Bureau.

Herbert W. Voorhees told a Rotary Club meeting that soda pop, hot dogs and potato chips continue to be the luncheon among millions of the high school crowd.

"It's no wonder we find our boys making poor showings in physical exams for Army service and scores of our teenage mothers seriously affected with childbirth complications because of malnutrition," he declared.

Corn Curb Fails; Agency Tells Why

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department came up with a detailed report today showing why its control program for corn has failed to hold down surpluses of the crop.

A check of farm plantings under the program last year showed the agency said, that only 14 per cent of the acreage was grown in compliance with the program.

The program set a planting allotment of 37,289,000 acres for a designated commercial producing area comprising 894 counties in 24 Midwestern, Eastern and Southeastern states. This allotment was apportioned among individual farms and only those complying with their allotments became eligible for full price support protection.

The commercial area planted 52,793,000 acres or 15,504,000 more than the allotment. The crop turned out to be third largest of record.

The number of farms complying with their allotments was 38.6 per cent of the total. This meant that there was a higher percentage of compliance among small farms than among larger ones. Compliance by farms ranged from 68.3 per cent in Arkansas counties in the commercial area to 24.7 per cent in Wisconsin.

In Iowa, one of the top corn states, 11½ per cent of the acreage and 28.4 per cent of the farms were in compliance. In Illinois, another big producer, the figures were 14.7 per cent of the acreage and 37.8 per cent of the farms.

This low level of compliance has been cited by Secretary of Agriculture Benson as a reason why the program should be abandoned and farmers left free to plant whatever acreage they desired. He, of course, would provide lower price supports.

The agriculture committee of the House is considering a plan under which growers would be given an opportunity to vote on elimination of the allotment program.

Detroit Cops Crack Down On Hoodlums

DETROIT (AP)—Police continued their crackdown on school ground loiterers today after four acts of violence in two days. Two teachers were attacked and three youths stabbed in the outbreaks.

Three youths were held for questioning after Richard Christian, 31, a white teacher at Washington Trade School, was pelted with rocks and roughed up by four young Negroes on the school's playground.

The day before, Mrs. Ethel Tincher, 45, a teacher at Denby High School, was beaten by two youths she found loitering in the halls during class hours. She is white and identified her assailants as white. She said she did not think they were Denby students.

Andrew Jones, 15, was stabbed twice in the back and Robert King, 17, was slashed on the side of the head in a fight with another youth, Eric Roby, 15, in the basement of McMichael Junior High School near downtown Detroit. All are Negroes and students at the school.

Police reported Shelby Hereford, 14, was stabbed in the side and injured seriously. He said he and another boy were playing with knives on the playground at Jacoby School. He identified his companion as Robert Garton, 14. Both are Negroes.

Clarence Sailor, William Chisholm and Thomas Hill, all 18, were arrested for investigation of felonious assault a few hours after Christian reported that four Negro youths attacked him. He said he had sought to question them when they walked into a baseball game he was refereeing. The three youths are not students at the school.

State Ruling Given On Judges' Pay

COLUMBUS (AP) — The attorney general has ruled that while Ohio law allows county commissioners to hike the salary of a county judge as much as $1,000 annually, the state's constitution prevents any such increase during an existing term.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe's opinion had been asked by Auglaize County Prosecutor James I. Shaw in the cases of two county judges whose work loads in St. Marys and Wapakoneta had turned out to be greater than anticipated.

In another opinion, Saxbe ruled that county commissioners have an absolute duty to erect guard rails at certain points specified by law, and failure to do so makes the county liable for damages.

Col. Joseph Friedlander Jr., Air Force installations representative here, said the money will be used for a 68,000 square foot maintenance reserve hangar and an expansion to the base's central heating plant.

New Boston Seeking Aid for Unemployed

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—New Boston, a town of approximately 5,000 within the corporate limits of Portsmouth, Wednesday asked President Eisenhower and Gov. C. William O'Neill for financial aid for its unemployed.

Mayor Vernal Riffe said the relief burden was growing because of an increased number of jobless, due to curtailment of operations at the New Boston plant of the Detroit Steel Corp. The mill plans to cut employment from 4,000 to 1,500.

Last Honor Farm Escapee Is Nabbed

ELYRIA (AP) — Robert L. Robinson, 19, of Toledo, was the last of four prisoners to be rounded up late Wednesday after an escape from the Osborne State Honor Farm.

Robert R. Moneyham, 21, and Leroy E. Blair, 22, also of Toledo, and Richard Hoffman, 23, of Columbus, were captured shortly after the quartet fled early Wednesday in a guard's car. All were brought to the Lorain County jail.

Social Barrier Seen in Britain

LONDON (AP)—A British government committee, which wants business firms to ease rush hour traffic by staggering working hours, has hit a social barrier.

Most London businesses now open at 9 a. m. The committee, seeking to persuade part of them to unlock their doors half an hour earlier, reported: "One large city organization, who considered an 8:30 a. m. start, reported that their female staff objected to the proposal on the ground that such an early start, suggestive of factory hours, would involve a loss of social prestige."

Officer Wounds Man After Tavern Ruckus

AKRON (AP) — Patrolman Carl Godfrey, 29, left his traffic duties long enough late Wednesday to wound and capture a bar patron who had started firing at random in a downtown grill.

The gunman was identified as James Anderson Alexander, about 40, who suffered a stomach wound. The patrolman was unhurt, but a stray shot from Alexander's gun hit the foot of another bar patron, James Anthony.

Tigers Halted, 3-2 By Cavalier Nine

Circleville High's baseball Tigers turned in a fine opening day game but dropped a closely played 3-2 contest at Chillicothe yesterday.

The strong Cavaliers were forced to go two extra innings before pushing the winning tally across the plate. Chillicothe pitcher Don Hannah practically won his own game by blasting a line drive single to right field with a man on in the ninth.

Only one error was committed in the contest and the pitching for both teams was in mid-season form. The tilt had all the thrills of a championship game.

On Circleville's side of the ledger, the picture centered around pitcher Mike Hosler, He collected the Tigers' only two hits and twirled an air-tight game throughout the entire nine innings.

* * *

IT WAS a tough test for the Tiger ace to lose. He gave up only six hits, walked two and fanned eight.

Chillicothe used three pitchers. R. J. Hall started, was relieved by Jim Peck in the third. Hannah, who got credit for the win, took over in the sixth.

Circleville's downfall came in the hitting department. The Tigers had 21 batters set down via the third strike route.

Chillicothe scored twice in the bottom of the first and then didn't score again until the winning run in the ninth.

A triple by R. J. Hall did the damage. The shortstop lined the ball deep to left, scoring Jones who had led off the game with a walk. Hall then scored on an infield out.

The score remained 2-0 until the top of the sixth, when the Tigers tied it up.

* * *

DAVE Smith led off the inning by drawing a base on balls and then moved to second on a passed ball. Hosler drove him in by lining a single to right.

Hosler then stole second and Dick Smith drew a walk, but an infield roller forced Hosler at third. Smith moved to third on a passed ball, however, and then scored on John Wright's infield out.

Coach Dick Boyd said he was not displeased with the Tigers' showing, although their hitting is greatly in need of improvement, he added. Pitching and defense look as tough as predicted, the mentor pointed out.

CHS gets a chance to even the score with the Cavaliers when they come here Wednesday. In the meantime, the locals have three games scheduled.

The Tiger schedule calls for a doubleheader at Logan Saturday. They open the SCOL season with a game against Franklin Heights here Tuesday.

Coach Boyd said he plans to start Don Rowland in the first game against Logan Saturday and the second game starter will be either Joe Adkins or Duane Dean.

Bill Skowron Does OK as Yank Cleanup

Stengel's Number One Worry-Wart Batting .451 in Spring Prep

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It seems Bill Skowron always starts to worry whenever he's pushed into the cleanup spot in the New York Yankees' batting order during the regular season. So Manager Casey Stengel decided he'd put him there in the spring exhibitions and let him get his worryin' over early.

If Skowron still is worrying, this kind of worry could put the guys who make the tranquilizers out of business.

The Moose—not Mickey Mantle—leads the American League champs with a .415 batting average, seven home runs and 20 RBI. He rapped two homers again Wednesday as the Yanks beat Washington 7-5.

Skowron helped push Yankee starter Johnny Kucks into a 6-0 lead with his slam off Camilo Pascual in the second. But the young righthander blew most of it and the score was 6-5 after the fifth when Neil Chrisley drove in three with a double. The Moose got a solo homer in the ninth off Bud Byerly.

Best pitching was at Sarasota, Fla., where Boston beat Pittsburgh 2-0. Both runs were scored in the eighth on a pair of wild pitches by rookie southpaw Joe Gibbon. The Red Sox had just one hit, Don Buddin's first inning single, through seven off Ron Kline and Bob Smith. Ike DeLock and Leo Kiely combined for the shutout for Boston.

Jim Bunning went all the way for Detroit and allowed Cincinnati only three base runners over the last six innings, but by then it was too late. Gus Bell homered in the first and Smoky Burgess slugged one with a man on in the second to beat the Tigers 3-2. Brooks Lawrence, Charley Rabe and Jay Hook shut off the Tigers with five hits.

The Tigers bought outfielder Stan Palys from the Redlegs for an undisclosed price. This may mean Cincinnati has decided to go with outfielder Vada Pinson, the rookie pheenom up from Class C. But also it might mean the Reds are ready to swap Burgess for an established outfielder.

Philadelphia caught up late on Harry Anderson's eighth-inning homer, matched a Dodger run in the 12th and finally won 4-3 in 14 innings on a bases-loaded single by Willie Jones. Shortstop Andre Rodgers scored a two-run homer in the ninth that gave San Francisco a 9-8 win over Baltimore.

The Chicago Cubs whipped Cleveland 8-2, scoring three in the first two innings off Mike Garcia, and socking away four in the ninth off Hal Woodeschick on Bob Speake's homer and Lee Walls' bases-loaded double.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Rory Calhoun scored a sixth round technical knockout over Yolande Pompey in a fight here Wednesday night that sent Pompey to a hospital for about an hour.

Dr. John Ambach halted the fight after Calhoun connected with a hard right to Pompey's jaw in the fifth. Pompey subsequently couldn't move his neck.

Hawks Pamper Bill Russell's Ouchy Ankle

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Boston's chances in the National Basketball Assn. championship playoffs well may rest on Bill Russell's ankle injury.

The 6-10 Russell injured his ankle Wednesday night in the third game of the series between Boston's Celtics and the St. Louis Hawks. St. Louis won the game 111-108.

Russell was removed from the game and taken to Jewish Hospital. X-rays showed his ankle was badly sprained.

Dr. Stan London said, "We'll start working on it first thing in the morning."

He said Russell "might be ready for Saturday and probably will be in the game" April 9 at Boston.

Wednesday night's game, which put the Hawks ahead 2-1 in the best of seven series, was as tough a battle as the first one. The first game was won by St. Louis 104-102. Last Sunday the Celtics won 136-112.

Hawk star Cliff Hagan is still high scorer of the series even though he was held to 18 points Wednesday night. He totaled 70 in the first two games.

Ashville Community Club Honors High School Athletes

The March meeting of the Ashville Community Club was held Monday night in the Ashville EUB Church with club president, Dale E. Schiff in charge.

Following a ham dinner, served by the members of the EUB Friendship Circle to some 150 members and guests, Edwin Irwin, master of ceremonies, presented the coaches and members of the Ashville basketball and football teams, who were guests for the evening.

Benis Lutz, reserve coach, introduced members of the reserve football and basketball squads. Russell Gregg, varsity coach, introduced members of the varsity football and basketball teams and gave a resume' of the team records of the teams.

The football team played 11-man football the past season for the first time in several years and performed credibly in the tough Darby Valley League. Donald Welsh, an alumni, served as assistant line coach.

The basket ball team finished second in the county league with one loss and finished the season strong, defeating Darby, the league winners, in the county tournament finals to win the tournament for a record-breaking five in a row; three of these teams being coached by Gregg. Coach Gregg also complimented the teams and its followers for their good sportsmanship during the season.

* * *

COACH WHITEY REGAN, basketball coach at Capital University, whose team won the Ohio Conference title in 1956-57, was introduced and made an excellent talk on the value of sports in school and in later life.

Edwin Irwin made the presentation of the Community Club's trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding senior athlete in the local school, to Dick Hoover, who also was the Bowsher Trophy winner this year. Irwin also presented Hoover's grandfather, Russell Hoover, and his father, Richard Hoover, who were both stellar Ashville athletes in past years.

Irwin explained that the award was based on all-round athletic ability and Hoover was a good example as he has been a track star, pitcher on the county-championship baseball team, all-county basketball player and receiver of honorable mention in the state last fall as a football player, although being unable to play the full season because of a broken bone.

Hoover was the leading ground-gainer in the Darby Valley League although he played in only two full games. The trophy is awarded permanently to the winner.

Following the program, a short business meeting was conducted by Schiff during which plans for the annual Independence Day Celebration were made.

Congressmen Ask Change In Title Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two representatives today threatened congressional action unless one of two Western boxers gets a crack at the world heavyweight title.

Reps. Engle (D-Calif) and Udall (D-Ariz) agreed in a joint statement that the winner of the April 9 Eddie Machen-Zora Folley fight in San Francisco will be the only logical contender for the heavyweight crown held by Floyd Patterson of New York City.

They accused Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, of refusing to let the champion fight either Machen or Folley. They called it "Eastern city slicker tactics."

Machen, undefeated in 23 fights, is from Redding, Calif. Folley, with only 2 losses and 1 draw in 42 bouts, is from Chandler, Airz.

"If big Eastern promoters continue putting a freeze on small-town Western fighters, we believe Congress should act to prevent such monopolistic conduct," the Engle-Udall statement said.

Unless there is such a title fight, the congressmen said, they will prepare legislation "to set up bona fide national standards and a national supervisory commission which will result in real national championships — not regulated titles controlled by a few New York manipulators."

39 Ohio Lake Areas Ready For Flood of Fishermen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Attendants at 39 Ohio lake areas administered by the parks division of the Department of Natural Resources are getting ready to receive thousands of fishermen.

The new 1958 boat and motor licenses are on sale at these lakes.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife says 25 of the 48 ponds in the Delaware Reservoir wildlife area are now open for public fishing. The remainder of the ponds are too shallow for fishing, but are good refuge for breeding waterfowl.

State game protectors and rural mail carriers in 42 northwestern Ohio counties have started a two-week pheasant census project. The mail carriers are volunteers in the annual census and they'll note the number of cock and hen pheasants they see while making mail deliveries.

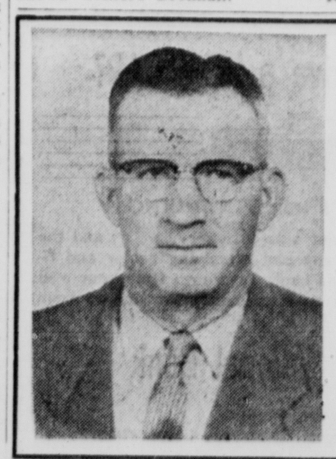

Results of the census are used in establishing new pheasant programs and in recommending the length of season and daily bag limit that should be set for pheasant hunting.

The state is waging war against pollution at Lake Hope in Vinton County. Authorities say acid water from abandoned coal mines flowing into Big Sandy Run, which feeds Lake Hope, is threatening the fish population again this year. Parks division men are dumping lime into Big Sandy Run at the rate of a ton per day in order to neutralize the acid.

The cost to the wildlife division in its battle against pollution at the lake climbed from $377 in 1953 to more than $2,000 in 1957.

Edward Dooner of Bedford has received notice from Boone and Crockett Club officials that his deer bagged in Geauga County was the third largest whitetail shot on the American continent and entered in the 1956-57 trophy competition.

The club is a nonpartisan group founded by Theodore Roosevelt for the purpose of recognizing outstanding big game trophies. Dooner's trophy, scoring 197⅝ points in the nontypical category, put Ohio on the record books for the first time in the club's history.

Venturi, Snead Said Favorites

86 in Starting Field For Annual Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Ken Venturi is a young man with a mission in the Masters Golf Tournament, but the question is: Is he too eager?

"That is the danger," Byron Nelson, Ken's long-time tutor, said today, prior to the first-round tee-off.

"Venturi is playing beautifully. He is hitting the ball like a rifle shot. He is on fire with determination.

"I only hope he is not too intense. I don't think he is. But he is dying to win this tournament."

Winning the Masters title has been a driving ambition of the good-looking, 26-year-old San Franciscan since he blew it with a last-round 80 two years ago, when Jack Burke Jr. won.

"I aged 20 years in those four hours," Venturi said. "Ever since that day every shot I have made has been aimed at redeeming myself."

Venturi and Sam Snead have been tabbed cofavorites at 4-1 in an unofficial "book" which has spread over the 6,980-yard Augusta National course.

Venturi is the new hotshot of the rugged professional tour, leading money winner, victor in three winter tournaments and one of the most respected craftsmen among the pros themselves.

Snead is the ageless wonder from the Virginia Hills, at 46 still a supurb athlete with a flawless swing who drives the ball like a cannon blast. He has won more golf tournaments and probably more money than any man alive but he is still followed by the ghost of dubbed putts and missed opportunities.

The starting field numbers 86 and includes most of the golf masters of the world. Seven countries in addition to the United States are represented.

Bunning Continues Serving Home Runs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' Jim Bunning, who set a club gopher ball record last year while winning 20 games, relapsed into his old habit Wednesday.

In losing a 3-2 decision to Cincinnati, he served up pitches that Gus Bell slammed out of the park with the bases empty and that Smoky Burgess socked for a homer with one man on base.

Kluszewski Called Key to Pirates

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Ted Kluszewski, a hunk of muscle with a slipped disc, is THE Pittsburgh story this spring.

If big Klu can play regularly, the Pirates can hope for better things. If his back acts up, the cellar door is open.

The Pirates went into the Kluszewski situation with eyes wide open. Desperate for home run power to team with Frank Thomas, they decided to gamble on Ted's aching back. It was a calculated risk.

For almost a month Kluszewski did nothing but swing a bat and run. He was satisfied with the first reaction but still uncertain about his long range future. Even if he can open the season, there always is the danger of trouble at any time.

"Our team has no trouble hitting. Its only trouble is fielding," Manager Danny Murtaugh tells camp visitors. By "our team" he means big Klu, who can't bend freely for ground balls and low throws.

"We have a lot of IFs," said Murtaugh. "The big one, of course, is Kluszewski. Then there is Roberto Clemente. He had a bad back last year but claims to be completely recovered. Another "IF's is our pitching after Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law. And we have to get some punch to go with Thomas."

If Klu plays, Thomas probably will be on third. The handy Thomas hit .290 last year. Bill Mazeroski, (.283) due back from the Army this week on one of those six-month deals, will be at second with Dick Groat (.315) at short.

Gene Freese (.283) is available for third if Thomas has to go to first.

Bob Skinner (.305), a much improved hitter, will be in left field when Bill Virdon (251) in center and Clemente (.253) in right. John Powers (.294 at Columbus with 29 homers) will be a valuable left handed swinger and Ramon Majias (.275) will back up Skinner as a righthander.

Hank Foiles (.270), wearing contact lens for the first time, figures to be the No. 1 catcher.

The pitching side is weak after Friend (14-18), Law (10-8) and Kline (9-16) as starters and Elroy Face (4-6) in the bullpen. Murtaugh hopes to make a fourth starter out of Benny Daniels (17 8 at Hollywood). Bob Smith (2-4 with the Cardinals and Pirates) and Don Gross (7-9 with Cincinnati) are the only possibilities for a lefthanded starter.

2 More Boys Selected for All-Star Tilt

TROY (AP)—Bobby Greene of Akron South and Ralph Snead of Ironton have been named to play in the first annual Ohio All-Star high school basketball game here June 20.

Green, a 6-foot, 1-inch, 170-pounder, is the first to be selected for the North team which will be coached by John Broski of Cleveland East Tech and Dan Baker of Wayne County's Northwestern, state Class AA and Class A champs, respectively.

Greene averaged 18.2 points a game this season, scoring 362 points.

Snead is the second player named to the south squad. Middletown's Jerry Lucas was the first member chosen.

Snead, who is also 6-foot-1, set an all-time Ironton scoring record of 426 points this past season for an average of 23.6 per game.

The South squad will be directed by Middletown Coach Paul Walker and J. Franklin Miller of Pleasantville, state Class AA and Class A semifinalists, respectively.

The game, to be played at Hobart Arena here, will climax a two-day clinic. Both the clinic and the game are being sponsored by the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn.

Indians-Chisox Trade Rumored

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox and General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians are keeping the telephones buzzing with more trade talk. These are the rumors:

1. The Indians are willing to part with relief pitcher Ray Narleski for a first baseman.

3. Lane is dangling a righthanded hitting outfielder in front of the Sox, who are interested primarily in Rocco Colavito.

Bearcats To Play In Dixie Classic

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, which won the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship in its first year in the loop, will play a 26-game schedule next season including an appearance in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C.

The schedule, announced Wednesday night by Coach George Smith at the annual basketball banquet, calls for the usual home and home arrangements with all Missouri Valley Conference opponents and the annual tilts with Xavier, Miami and Dayton.

The Dixie Classic Tournament will have UC playing with North Carolina, Duke, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Michigan State, Yale and Louisville.

Tigers Halted, 3-2 By Cavalier Nine

Circleville High's baseball Tigers turned in a fine opening day game but dropped a closely played 3-2 contest at Chillicothe yesterday.

The strong Cavaliers were forced to go two extra innings before pushing the winning tally across the plate. Chillicothe pitcher Don Hannah practically won his own game by blasting a line drive single to right field with a man on in the ninth.

Only one error was committed in the contest and the pitching for both teams was in mid-season form. The tilt had all the thrills of a championship game.

On Circleville's side of the ledger, the picture centered around pitcher Mike Hosler, He collected the Tigers' only two hits and twirled an air-tight game throughout the entire nine innings.

* * *

IT WAS a tough test for the Tiger ace to lose. He gave up only six hits, walked two and fanned eight.

Chillicothe used three pitchers. R. J. Hall started, was relieved by Jim Peck in the third. Hannah, who got credit for the win, took over in the sixth.

Circleville's downfall came in the hitting department. The Tigers had 21 batters set down via the third strike route.

Chillicothe scored twice in the bottom of the first and then didn't score again until the winning run in the ninth.

A triple by R. J. Hall did the damage. The shortstop lined the ball deep to left, scoring Jones who had led off the game with a walk. Hall then scored on an infield out.

The score remained 2-0 until the top of the sixth, when the Tigers tied it up.

* * *

DAVE Smith led off the inning by drawing a base on balls and then moved to second on a passed ball. Hosler drove him in by lining a single to right.

Hosler then stole second and Dick Smith drew a walk, but an infield roller forced Hosler at third. Smith moved to third on a passed ball, however, and then scored on John Wright's infield out.

Coach Dick Boyd said he was not displeased with the Tigers' showing, although their hitting is greatly in need of improvement, he added. Pitching and defense look as tough as predicted, the mentor pointed out.

CHS gets a chance to even the score with the Cavaliers when they come here Wednesday. In the meantime, the locals have three games scheduled.

The Tiger schedule calls for a doubleheader at Logan Saturday. They open the SCOL season with a game against Franklin Heights here Tuesday.

Coach Boyd said he plans to start Don Rowland in the first game against Logan Saturday and the second game starter will be either Joe Adkins or Duane Dean.

Following the program, a short business meeting was conducted by Schiff during which plans for the annual Independence Day Celebration were made.

Congressmen Ask Change In Title Bout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two representatives today threatened congressional action unless one of two Western boxers gets a crack at the world heavyweight title.

Reps. Engle (D-Calif) and Udall (D-Ariz) agreed in a joint statement that the winner of the April 9 Eddie Machen-Zora Folley fight in San Francisco will be the only logical contender for the heavyweight crown held by Floyd Patterson of New York City.

They accused Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato, of refusing to let the champion fight either Machen or Folley. They called it "Eastern city slicker tactics."

Machen, undefeated in 23 fights, is from Redding, Calif. Folley, with only 2 losses and 1 draw in 42 bouts, is from Chandler, Airz.

"If big Eastern promoters continue putting a freeze on smalltown Western fighters, we believe Congress should act to prevent such monopolistic conduct," the Engle-Udall statement said.

Unless there is such a title fight, the congressmen said, they will prepare legislation "to set up bona fide national standards and a national supervisory commission which will result in real national championships — not regulated titles controlled by a few New York manipulators."

39 Ohio Lake Areas Ready For Flood of Fishermen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Attendants at 39 Ohio lake areas administered by the parks division of the Department of Natural Resources are getting ready to receive thousands of fishermen.

The new 1958 boat and motor licenses are on sale at these lakes.

The Ohio Division of Wildlife says 25 of the 48 ponds in the Delaware Reservoir wildlife area are now open for public fishing. The remainder of the ponds are too shallow for fishing, but are good refuge for breeding waterfowl.

State game protectors and rural mail carriers in 42 northwestern Ohio counties have started a two-week pheasant census project. The mail carriers are volunteers in the annual census and they'll note the number of cock and hen pheasants they see while making mail deliveries.

Results of the census are used in establishing new pheasant programs and in recommending the length of season and daily bag limit that should be set for pheasant hunting.

The state is waging war against pollution at Lake Hope in Vinton County. Authorities say acid water from abandoned coal mines flowing into Big Sandy Run, which feeds Lake Hope, is threatening the fish population again this year. Parks division men are dumping lime into Big Sandy Run at the rate of a ton per day in order to neutralize the acid.

The cost to the wildlife division in its battle against pollution at the lake climbed from $377 in 1953 to more than $2,000 in 1957.

Edward Dooner of Bedford has received notice from Boone and Crockett Club officials that his deer bagged in Geauga County was the third largest whitetail shot on the American continent and entered in the 1956-57 trophy competition.

The club is a nonpartisan group founded by Theodore Roosevelt for the purpose of recognizing outstanding big game trophies. Dooner's trophy, scoring 197⅝ points in the nontypical category, put Ohio on the record books for the first time in the club's history.

Venturi, Snead Said Favorites

86 in Starting Field For Annual Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Ken Venturi is a young man with a mission in the Masters Golf Tournament, but the question is: Is he too eager?

"That is the danger," Byron Nelson, Ken's long-time tutor, said today, prior to the first-round tee-off.

"Venturi is playing beautifully. He is hitting the ball like a rifle shot. He is on fire with determination.

"I only hope he is not too intense. I don't think he is. But he is dying to win this tournament."

Winning the Masters title has been a driving ambition of the good-looking, 26-year-old San Franciscan since he blew it with a last-round 80 two years ago, when Jack Burke Jr. won.

"I aged 20 years in those four hours," Venturi said. "Ever since that day every shot I have made has been aimed at redeeming myself."

Venturi and Sam Snead have been tabbed cofavorites at 4-1 in an unofficial "book" which has spread over the 6,980-yard Augusta National course.

Venturi is the new hotshot of the rugged professional tour, leading money winner, victor in three winter tournaments and one of the most respected craftsmen among the pros themselves.

Snead is the ageless wonder from the Virginia Hills, at 46 still a supurb athlete with a flawless swing who drives the ball like a cannon blast. He has won more golf tournaments and probably more money than any man alive but he is still followed by the ghost of dubbed putts and missed opportunities.

The starting field numbers 86 and includes most of the golf masters of the world. Seven countries in addition to the United States are represented.

Bunning Continues Serving Home Runs

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers' Jim Bunning, who set a club gopher ball record last year while winning 20 games, relapsed into his old habit Wednesday.

In losing a 3-2 decision to Cincinnati, he served up pitches that Gus Bell slammed out of the park with the bases empty and that Smoky Burgess socked for a homer with one man on base.

Indians-Chisox Trade Rumored

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Chuck Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox and General Manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians are keeping the telephones buzzing with more trade talk. These are the rumors:

1. The Indians are willing to part with relief pitcher Ray Narleski for a first baseman.

3. Lane is dangling a righthanded hitting outfielder in front of the Sox, who are interested primarily in Rocco Colavito.

Kluszewski Called Key to Pirates

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Ted Kluszewski, a hunk of muscle with a slipped disc, is THE Pittsburgh story this spring.

If big Klu can play regularly, the Pirates can hope for better things. If his back acts up, the cellar door is open.

The Pirates went into the Kluszewski situation with eyes wide open. Desperate for home run power to team with Frank Thomas, they decided to gamble on Ted's aching back. It was a calculated risk.

For almost a month Kluszewski did nothing but swing a bat and run. He was satisfied with the first reaction but still uncertain about his long range future. Even if he can open the season, there always is the danger of trouble at any time.

"Our team has no trouble hitting. Its only trouble is fielding," Manager Danny Murtaugh tells camp visitors. By "our team" he means big Klu, who can't bend freely for ground balls and low throws.

"We have a lot of IFs," said Murtaugh. "The big one, of course, is Kluszewski. Then there is Roberto Clemente. He had a bad back last year but claims to be completely recovered. Another "IF's is our pitching after Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law. And we have to get some punch to go with Thomas."

If Klu plays, Thomas probably will be on third. The handy Thomas hit .290 last year. Bill Mazeroski, (.283) due back from the Army this week on one of those six-month deals, will be at second with Dick Groat (.315) at short.

Gene Freese (.283) is available for third if Thomas has to go to first.

Bob Skinner (.305), a much improved hitter, will be in left field when Bill Virdon (251) in center and Clemente (.253) in right. John Powers (.294 at Columbus with 29 homers) will be a valuable left handed swinger and Ramon Majias (.275) will back up Skinner as a righthander.

Hank Foiles (.270), wearing contact lens for the first time, figures to be the No. 1 catcher.

The pitching side is weak after Friend (14-18), Law (10-8) and Kline (9-16) as starters and El roy Face (4-6) in the bullpen. Murtaugh hopes to make a fourth starter out of Benny Daniels (17 8 at Hollywood). Bob Smith (2-4 with the Cardinals and Pirates) and Don Gross (7-9 with Cincinnati) are the only possibilities for a lefthanded starter.

2 More Boys Selected for All-Star Tilt

TROY (AP)—Bobby Greene of Akron South and Ralph Snead of Ironton have been named to play in the first annual Ohio All-Star high school basketball game here June 20.

Green, a 6-foot, 1-inch, 170-pounder, is the first to be selected for the North team which will be coached by John Broski of Cleveland East Tech and Dan Baker of Wayne County's Northwestern, state Class AA and Class A champs, respectively.

Greene averaged 18.2 points a game this season, scoring 362 points.

Snead is the second player named to the south squad. Middletown's Jerry Lucas was the first member chosen.

Snead, who is also 6-foot-1, set an all-time Ironton scoring record of 426 points this past season for an average of 23.6 per game.

The South squad will be directed by Middletown Coach Paul Walker and J. Franklin Miller of Pleasantville, state Class AA and Class A semifinalists, respectively.

The game, to be played at Hobart Arena here, will climax a two-day clinic. Both the clinic and the game are being sponsored by the Ohio High School Basketball Coaches Assn.

Bearcats To Play In Dixie Classic

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati, which won the Missouri Valley Conference basketball championship in its first year in the loop, will play a 26-game schedule next season including an appearance in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N. C.

The schedule, announced Wednesday night by Coach George Smith at the annual basketball banquet, calls for the usual home and home arrangements with all Missouri Valley Conference opponents and the annual tilts with Xavier, Miami and Dayton.

The Dixie Classic Tournament will have UC playing with North Carolina, Duke, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Michigan State, Yale and Louisville.

LESS BRAIN, SMARTER — Valerie Bean, 10, Toronto, Ont., is proof half a brain can be better than a whole one. On Nov. 4 she underwent a hemispherectomy —removal of one of the two major brain lobes — and since then her I.Q. is much improved and for the first time she writes well, speaks well and takes an interest in people and events around her. When she was 9 months old her brain was damaged by an encephalitis attack. (International)

LESS BRAIN, SMARTER — Valerie Bean, 10, Toronto, Ont., is proof half a brain can be better than a whole one. On Nov. 4 she underwent a hemispherectomy —removal of one of the two major brain lobes — and since then her I.Q. is much improved and for the first time she writes well, speaks well and takes an interest in people and events around her. When she was 9 months old her brain was damaged by an encephalitis attack. (International)

Local Pastor Urges Moral Road Habits

"Let us put first things first in our "Attack on Traffic Accidents" —and by that I mean let's put morality into our driving!"

This plea for a basic approach to the problem of traffic accidents was voiced today by the Rev. Charles D. Reed of the First Methodist Church. He urged motorists to cooperate fully with the defensive driving program which the Pickaway County Traffic Safety Committee is conducting this month as part of the nationwide Back the Attack campaign.

"It will be vain to enact traffic laws and try to enforce them if so many of our people continue to maintain their present immoral attitude toward traffic conduct," the Rev. Reed said.

He scored the lax moral attitude of people who treat traffic offenses lightly. He said that many individuals who condemn unethical business practices and boorish social actions condone irresponsible traffic conduct.

"Traffic conduct cannot be divorced from other conduct," he declared. "Most traffic law violations carry within them the seeds of serious accidents, and the appalling traffic toll will mount unless drivers can be made to see the relationship between irresponsible traffic conduct and the annual slaughter on our streets."

He said the purpose of the current defensive driving campaign is to impress upon drivers the necessity of facing up to their driving responsibilities and to build public support for the current stepping up of enforcement by the police and the courts.

Toledo Judges Rap High Court Views

TOLEDO (AP)—Most of the judges in appellate and common pleas courts in Lucas County believe the Ohio Supreme Court is without authority to ban the taking of newspaper photographs or television pictures during lower court trial sessions.

A poll of seven judges found all but two believe that a judge has jurisdiction in his own courtroom and that the Supreme Court should not set rules of conduct for the lower courts.

The judges were asked to comment on the Supreme Court's ruling March 21 that photography in courtrooms is prohibited and that violations could invite prosecution for contempt.

About Million To Vote in Ohio Primary

COLUMBUS (AP) — Nearly a million Ohioans will vote in the May 6 primary elections.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown estimated today the total would be close to 950,000, an increase of more han 80,000 above the primary turnout in 1954, a non-presidential election year.

Ohio's primary election total was 869,222 four years ago.

High total for the primaries was 1,535,055 in 1952, a presidential election year when voting usually runs heavier. The primary total in 1956 was 1,222,463.

Reports showed big registration increases in Cuyahoga, Franklin and Lucas counties. Despite a drop in registrations in some counties, including Mahoning, eligibility lists remained high because of heavy voting in the 1956 presidential election. Ohioans who voted in the 1956 election still can vote this year even if they failed to cast ballots last year.

Registrations to vote hold good for two years. Twenty-one of Ohio's 88 counties require registration by all voters. Seventeen other counties require registration only in portions of their areas.

Residents of non-registration areas can vote in this year's primaries if they are 21 years old or will reach that age before next Nov. 4, date of the general election. Voters also must have lived in the state a full year and in their precinct for 40 days.
